Bestuurlijke Informatiesystemen En Automatisering:

Towards a Software Factory M. Van Genuchten, 2012-12-06 The subject of this book is the control of software engineering The rapidly increasing demand for software is accompanied by a growth in the number of products on the market as well as their size and complexity Our ability to control software engineering is hardly keeping pace with this growth As a result software projects are often late software products sometimes lack the required quality and the productivity improvements achieved by software engineering are insufficient to keep up with the demand This book describes ways to improve software engineering control It argues that this should be expanded to include control of the development maintenance and reuse of software thus making it possible to apply many of the ideas and concepts that originate in production control and quality control The book is based on research and experience accumulated over a number of years During this period I had two employers Eindhoven University of Technology and Philips Electronics Research is not a one man activity and I would like to thank the following persons for their contributions to the successful completion of this project First and foremost my Ph D advisers Theo Bemelmans Hans van Vliet and Fred Heemstra whose insights and experience proved invaluable at every stage Many thanks are also due to Rob Kusters and Fred Heemstra for their patience in listening to my sometimes wild ideas and for being such excellent colleagues

Developing Geographic Information Infrastructures Bastiaan Loenen, 2006 Within information societies information availability is a key issue affecting society's well being A geographic information infrastructure GII is the underlying foundation of such a society with regards to geographic information Access to government information policies are important for the availability and successful use of the information and the success of the GII itself Yet there have been only a few investigations into access policy oriented towards GII developments This book adds this perspective Through the creation of a GII maturity matrix describing the development in GIIs it presents new insights in the role access policies may play in the development of GIIs The book provides policy makers with strategy guidelines for GII development as well as information about which access policy would best promote the use of geographic information This should result in a GII that is able to perform its appropriate infrastructure function in an information society
