Cold War Monks Eugene Ford, 2017-10-24 The groundbreaking account of U S clandestine efforts to use Southeast Asian Buddhism to advance Washington's anticommunist goals during the Cold War How did the U S government make use of a Buddhist policy in Southeast Asia during the Cold War despite the American principle that the state should not meddle with religion To answer this question Eugene Ford delved deep into an unprecedented range of U S and Thai sources and conducted numerous oral history interviews with key informants Ford uncovers a riveting story filled with U S national security officials diplomats and scholars seeking to understand and build relationships within the Buddhist monasteries of Southeast Asia This fascinating narrative provides a new look at how the Buddhist leaderships of Thailand and its neighbors became enmeshed in Cold War politics and in the U S government's clandestine efforts to use a predominant religion of Southeast Asia as an instrument of national stability to counter communist revolution

A Heritage of Ruins William R. Chapman, 2013-07-31 The ancient ruins of Southeast Asia have long sparked curiosity and romance in the world's imagination They appear in accounts of nineteenth century French explorers as props for Indiana Jones adventures and more recently as the scene of Lady Lara Croft's fantastical battle with the forces of evil They have been featured in National Geographic magazine and serve as backdrops for popular television travel and reality shows Now William Chapman's expansive new study explores the varied roles these monumental remains have played in the histories of Southeast Asia's modern nations Based on more than fifteen years of travel research and visits to hundreds of ancient sites A Heritage of Ruins shows the close connection between ruins conservation and both colonialism and nation building. It also demonstrates the profound impact of European derived ideas of historic and aesthetic significance on ancient ruins and how these continue to color the management and presentation of sites in Southeast Asia today. Angkor Pagan, Bagan, Borobudur and Ayutthaya lie at the center of this cultural and architectural tour, but less visited sites including Laos's stunning Vat Phou, the small temple platforms of Malaysia's Lembah Bujang Valley, the candi of the Dieng Plateau in Java and the ruins of Mingun in Burma and Wiang Kum Kam near Chiang Mai in northern Thailand are also discussed. All share a relative isolation from modern urban centers of population, sitting in park like settings serving as objects of tourism and as lynchpins for local and even national economies. Chapman argues that these sites also remain important to surrounding residents both as a means of income and as continuing sources of spiritual meaning. He examines the complexities of heritage efforts in the context of present day expectations by focusing on the roles of both outside and indigenous experts in conservation and management and on attempts by local populations to reclaim their patrimony and play a larger role in protection and interpretation. Tracing the history of interventions aimed at halting time's decay, Chapman provides a chronicle of conservation efforts over a century and a half, highlighting the significant part foreign expertise has played in the region and the ways that national programs have in recent years begun to break from earlier models. The book ends with suggestions for how Southeast Asian managers and officials might best protect their incomparable heritage of art and architecture and how this legacy might be preserved for future generations.

Ultimate Realities Robert Cummings Neville, 2000-11-09. The idea of ultimacy as a comparative category that cuts across major religious traditions and cultures is discussed in Ultimate Realities, a multi-authored collaborative work. In this light, Chinese religion, Buddhism, Hinduism, Judaism, Christianity and Islam are examined by distinguished specialist historians. Two senses of ultimacy emerged in the Comparative Religious Ideas Project from which this volume came. One is the ultimacy of ontological matters such as God, the Dao or Brahman. The other is the anthropological ultimacy of religious quests such as the Buddhist journey to enlightenment, which does not stress any ontological ultimate and indeed in some forms considers ontological ultimates to be problematic. Underneath this comparative study is a theory and method of comparison which are discussed at length and embodied in the project. Contributors include John H. Berthrong, Francis X. Clooney, S. J., Malcolm David Eckel, Paula Fredriksen, S. Nomanul Haq, Joseph Kanofsky, Livia Kohn, James E. Miller, Robert Cummings Neville, Hugh Nicholson, Anthony J. Saldarini, Tina Shepardson, John Thatamanil and Wesley J. Wildman.

Constituting Communities John Clifford Holt, Jacob N. Kinnard, Jonathan S. Walters, 2003-03-19. Explores how community is defined and how it functions among Theravada Buddhists in South and Southeast Asia.

Interreligious Dialogue and Cultural Change Catherine Cornille, Stephanie Corigliano, 2012-08-17. The challenges and changes that take place when religions move from one cultural context to another present unique opportunities for interreligious dialogue. In new cultural environments, religions are not only propelled to enter into dialogue with the traditional or dominant religion of a particular culture religions are also invited to enter into dialogue with one another about cultural changes In this volume scholars from different religious traditions discuss the various types of dialogue that have emerged from the process of acculturation While the phenomenon of religious acculturation has generally focused on Western religions in non Western contexts this volume deals predominantly with the acculturation in the United States It thus offers a fresh look at the phenomenon of acculturation while also lifting up an often implicit or ignored dimension of interreligious dialogue
