Books in Print Supplement ,2002 An Exegesis on 'Better Dead Than Never' Laurent Boulanger,2015-08-14 This exegesis reflects and explores the literary techniques and the author's journey in the creation of the novel Better Dead Than Never. The novel's frame is built around the tradition of the hard-boiled genre of crime fiction popular in the USA in the 1930s and 1940s. Whilst the novel keeps the tradition of having a Private Investigator as the protagonist, the setting is Melbourne, Australia, and the timeframe is the mid-2000s. In addition, the protagonist is an attached woman in her thirties rather than the traditional single male protagonist. The novel, through the protagonist's journey, explores issues of class, racism, sexism, homophobia, police corruption, and the Australian legal system. The exegesis explains how the novel was created both in terms of fiction technique and the author's self-reflection on his choice of genre, setting, protagonist, dialogue, and structure. The methodology includes placing the novel in comparative evaluation with other works from Cornwell, Grafton, Evanovich, and works from the hard-boiled genre. It also examines feminism issues in terms of the protagonist's place in a male-dominated police environment and discusses the author's choice of using a female protagonist whilst being a male author.

A Guide for the New Novelist Laurent Boulanger, 2015-06-25. In this small but comprehensive volume, Dr Laurent Boulanger shares his wisdom of years of combined creative writing knowledge for the new novelist. He goes through the various aspects of setting yourself up as a novelist, including what genre to write in, career advice, traditional vs. new publishing opportunities, not giving up, time management, and learning the craft.

The Novelist Laurent Boulanger, 2015-08-05. Lewis was a good-selling writer once, a mid-list writer as they call them in the industry, basically one that sell enough books to keep on board but not so many that he becomes rich out of it. But now that he is older, his books no longer sell, and his girlfriend is tired of being with someone who is always broke. When his publisher takes his next novel without an advance and insists on publishing it as an e-book only, Lewis is forced to take on a creative teaching job at the local community college to make ends meet. He meets a young woman writer filled with talent who begins to take over his mind and his life. At the crossroad of possibilities, Lewis must decide to continue with writing or give it up forever.

France, Fin de Siècle Eugen Weber, 1986. The end of the nineteenth century in France was marked by political scandals, social unrest, dissension, and decadence. Yet the fin de siècle was also an era of great social and scientific progress, a time when advantages previously reserved for the privileged began to be shared by the many. Public transportation, electrical illumination, standard time, and an improved water supply radically altered the life of the modest folk who found time for travel and leisure activities, including sports such as cycling. Change became the nature of things, and people believed that further improvement was not only possible but inevitable. In this thoroughly engaging history, Eugen Weber describes ways of life not as recorded by general history but as contemporaries experienced them. He writes about political atmosphere and public prejudices rather than standard political history. Water and washing bicycles and public transportation engage him more than great scientific discoveries. He discusses academic painting and poster art, the popular stage, and music halls at greater length than avant-garde and classic theater or opera. In this book, the importance of telephones, plumbing, and central heating outranks such traditional subjects as international developments, the rise of organized labor and the spread of socialism Weber does not neglect the darker side of the fin de si cle The discrepancy between material advance and spiritual dejection characteristic of our own times interests him as much as the idea of progress and he reminds us that for most people the period was far from elegant In the lurid context of military defeat political instability public scandal and clamorous social criticism one had also to contend with civic dirt unsanitary food mob violence and the seeds of modern day scourges pollution drugs sensationalism debased art the erosion of moral character Yet millions of fin de si cle French lived as only thousands had lived fifty years before while their advance was slow their right to improvement was conceded
