Notes to Assist in Differentiating Problems and Patterns
If low scores on tactile perception and gross are present, then low scores in this area are more likely part of a broader somatopraia pattern i.e. vestibular/bilateral integration.		Signs of poor proprioception frequently accompany both vestibular/bilateral integration problems and somatopraia.		Somatopraia may include problems in vestibular processing and/or bilateral integration and/or visual dyspraxia.	Signs of both somatopraia and visuopraia may be present, poor visuopraia scores without poor visual perception may be part of somatopraia pattern.	Problems with regulating sensory responses can occur in conjunction with problems in vestibular/bilateral integration, somatopraia, or visuopraia.
						Signs of over-responsiveness, under-responsiveness, and fluctuating responses may be seen together; poor sensory perception can be confused with sensory hypersensitivity.
