Mediarchy Yves Citton,2019-11-11 We think that we live in democracies in fact we live in mediarchies Our political regimes are based less on nations or citizens than on audiences shaped by the media. We assume that our social and political destinies are shaped by the will of the people without realizing that the people are always produced both as individuals and as aggregates by the media; we are all embedded in mediated publics intra-structured by the apparatuses of communication that govern our interactions. In this major book Yves Citton maps out the new regime of experience, media and power that he designates by the term mediarchy. To understand mediarchy we need to look both at the effects that the media have on us and also at the new forms of being and experience that they induce in us. We can never entirely escape from the effects of the mediarchies that operate through us but by becoming more aware of their conditioning we can develop the new forms of political analysis and practice which are essential if we are to rise to the unprecedented challenges of our time. This comprehensive and far-reaching book will be essential reading for students and scholars in media and communications, politics and sociology and it will be of great interest to anyone concerned about the multiple and complex ways that the media, from newspapers and TV to social media and the internet, shape our social, political and personal lives today.

The Night Watch Benjamin Scarlato, 2003-07-08. Maps of the universe and technologies of the future absorbed in the minds of creation. The ancient astronauts called magicians, trying to rebuild earth with a constant flow of agony. Art Maximus, being in charge of this, focuses on a better world. Foes of madness interfere; a mercenary by the name of Quintas turns through the tides of knowledge and builds his army to reshape the earth into his own name. Disasters of the soul. Fraser Voltaire, now the king of York, is being influenced by pressures from his unknown past, the ancient world that he has forgotten. After the murder of his wife Lady Venice, a timetable of a scientific war begins. The Seven Wonders of the Ancient World are rebuilt in the 1600s after being destroyed hundreds of years ago. The mysteries of the world are announced through this rebirth, this hidden history of the world. The unseen magicians interact with world events, changing the course of time, setting the world back, this earth being distorted brings only more grief when Quintas entertains the idea of being an inventor, ignoring the complexities of Leonardo da Vinci.
