Transnational Crime and Black Spots Stuart S. Brown, Margaret G. Hermann, 2019-10-29 The strength of this book is that it does not look at a single case or even a few disparate examples of drug weapon and human trafficking but looks at many patterns intra regionally cross nationally and internationally It is an innovative addition to the literature on the nature of the safe havens or black spots currently being used for illicit activity This book will make a clear impact on the scholarship of transnational crime and the geopolitics of the illicit global economy Jeremy Morris Aarhus University Denmark Transnational criminal insurgent and terrorist organizations seek places that they can govern and operate from with minimum interference from law enforcement This book examines 80 such safe havens which function outside effective state based government control and are sustained by illicit economic activities Brown and Hermann call these geographic locations black spots because like black holes in astronomy that defy the laws of Newtonian physics they defy the world as defined by the Westphalian state system The authors map flows of insecurity such as trafficking in drugs weapons and people providing an unusually clear view of the hubs and networks that form as a result As transnational crime is increasing on the internet Brown and Hermann also explore if there are places in cyberspace which can be considered black spots They conclude by elaborating the challenges that black spots pose for law enforcement and both national and international governance

Examining the Teacher Induction Process in Contemporary Education Systems Öztürk, Mustafa, Hoard, Paul Robert, 2018-08-10 Before today's teachers are ready to instruct the intellectual leaders of tomorrow they must first be trained themselves Every teacher experiences an induction process that can make their early years as an educator nerve racking Focusing on this period of time in a teacher's career can lead to greater teacher retention and success Examining the Teacher Induction Process in Contemporary Education Systems addresses the construct of teacher induction through theoretical and empirical research It also provides an in depth conceptualization of being a novice teacher through micro political realities of teaching in different geographical and cultural regions While highlighting topics including adaptation challenges mentor mentee interaction and teacher retention this book is ideally designed for school administrators early career teachers educational researchers educational professionals and academicians seeking current research on early career educator adaptation and practices
