Book And Making White Mans West Whiteness:

Making the White Man's West Jason E. Pierce, 2016-01-15 The West especially the Intermountain states ranks among the whitest places in America but this fact obscures the more complicated history of racial diversity in the region In Making the White Man's West author Jason E Pierce argues that since the time of the Louisiana Purchase the American West has been a racially contested space Using a nuanced theory of historical whiteness he examines why and how Anglo Americans dominated the region for a 120 year period In the early nineteenth century critics like Zebulon Pike and Washington Irving viewed the West as a dumping ground for free blacks and Native Americans a place where they could be segregated from the white communities east of the Mississippi River But as immigrant populations and industrialization took hold in the East white Americans began to view the West as a refuge for real whites The West had the most diverse population in the nation with substantial numbers of American Indians Hispanics and Asians but Anglo Americans could control these mostly disenfranchised peoples and enjoy the privileges of power while celebrating their presence as providing a unique regional character From this came the belief in a White Man's West a place ideally suited for real Americans in the face of changing world The first comprehensive study to examine the construction of white racial identity in the West Making the White Man's West shows how these two visions of the West as a racially diverse holding cell and a white refuge shaped the history of the region and influenced a variety of contemporary social issues in the West today

Making the White Man's West Jason E. Pierce, 2016 In the early nineteenth century critics like Zebulon Pike and Washington Irving viewed the West as a dumping ground for free blacks and Native Americans a place where they could be segregated from the white communities east of the Mississippi River But as immigrant populations and industrialization took hold in the East white Americans began to view the West as a refuge for real whites The West had the most diverse population in the nation with substantial numbers of American Indians Hispanics and Asians but Anglo Americans could control these mostly disenfranchised peoples and enjoy the privileges of power while celebrating their presence as providing a unique regional character The first comprehensive study to examine the construction of white racial identity in the West Making the White Man's West shows how these two visions of the West shaped the history of the region and influenced a variety of contemporary social issues in the West today

Making the White Man's West Jason Eric Pierce, 2008 White Male Nostalgia in Contemporary North American Literature Tim Engles, 2018-07-13 White Male Nostalgia in Contemporary North American Literature charts the late twentieth century development of reactionary emotions commonly felt by resentful yet often goodhearted white men Examining an eclectic array of literary case studies in light of recent work in critical whiteness and masculinity studies history geography philosophy and theology Tim Engles delineates five preliminary forms of white male nostalgia as dramatized in novels by Sloan Wilson Richard Wright Carol Shields Don DeLillo Louis Begley and Margaret Atwood demonstrating how literary fiction can help us understand the inner workings of deluded dominance These authors write from identities outside the defensive domain of normalized white masculinity demonstrating via extended interior dramas that although nostalgia is primarily thought of as an emotion felt by individuals it also works to shore up entrenched collective power

Making a Modern U.S. West Sarah Deutsch, 2022 To many Americans in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the West was simultaneously the greatest symbol of American opportunity the greatest story of its history and the imagined blank slate on which the country's future would be written From the Spanish American War in 1898 to the Great Depression's end from the Mississippi to the Pacific policymakers at various levels and large scale corporate investors along with those living in the West and its borderlands struggled over who would define modernity who would participate in the modern American West and who would be excluded In Making a Modern U.S. West Sarah Deutsch surveys the history of the U.S. West from 1898 to 1940 Centering what is often relegated to the margins in histories of the region the flows of people capital and ideas across borders Deutsch attends to the region's role in constructing U.S. racial formations and argues that the West as a region was as important as the South in constructing the United States as a white man's country While this racial formation was linked to claims of modernity and progress by powerful players Deutsch shows that visions of what constituted modernity were deeply contested by others This expansive volume presents the most thorough examination to date of the American West from the late 1890s to the eve of World War II

The Anatomy of Colorism in America Robb Nelson, 2025-04-21 The Anatomy of Colorism in America addresses the significance that colorism racial hierarchy and white skin idealization have each had on the lives of individuals across multiple communities and how those experiences have compared with one another These three complexion based imperial systems culturally legally politically and socially divided persons based on differing skin shades hair textures eye shapes facial angles body types or claims to mythical racial backgrounds The Anatomy of Colorism in America argues that the practices associated with empire building and imperial expansion in America such as manifest destiny settler colonialism and indentured servitude and slavery all led to the creation of these complexion based divisions Once formed these divisions led to socially damaging outcomes for the individuals perceived as nonwhite by the local Anglo American settler colonial class This book documents four locations and communities where such circumstances emerged and compares them The four case studies investigated in this book include Blacks in Charleston South Carolina the Californios in Alta California Mormons in Utah and the relationship between Indigenous Hawaiians Japanese immigrants and Anglo American whites in Hawaii

White Man's Work Joseph O. Jewell, 2023-11-07 In the financial chaos of the last few decades increasing wealth inequality has shaken people's expectations about middle class stability At the same time demographers have predicted the browning of the nation's middle class once considered a de facto white category over the next twenty years as the country becomes increasingly racially diverse In this book Joseph O Jewell takes us back to the turn of the twentieth century to show how evidence of middle class mobility among Black Mexican American and Chinese men generated both new anxieties and varieties of backlash among white populations Blending cultural history and historical sociology Jewell chronicles the continually evolving narratives that linked whiteness with middle class mobility and middle class manhood In doing so Jewell addresses a key issue in the historical sociology of race how racialized groups demarcate defend and alter social positions in overlapping hierarchies of race class and gender New racist narratives about non white men occupying middle class occupations emerged in cities across the nation at the turn of the century These stories helped to shore up white supremacy in the face of far reaching changes to the nation's racialized economic order
