Fukushima and Beyond Christopher Hubbard, 2016-04-22 The catalyst for this study was the Fukushima Daiichi major nuclear accident of 11 March 2011 In this event a severe earthquake and 15 metre tsunami caused serious damage and equipment failures at Japan's Fukushima 1 Nuclear Power Plant which were judged by the International Atomic Energy Agency to be equally as serious as the Soviet Chernobyl nuclear disaster of 1986 Against a background of nuclear hesitancy and reassessment the prospect of including or excluding nuclear power in a low carbon twenty first century world is now increasingly critical It is in this emerging scenario and context that this book presents a full suite of historical contemporary and projected data Its use of complementary and comparative country based case studies provides ample opportunity for developing strongly illustrative analysis of policy effectiveness in diverse polities and markets In this way it combines clear comprehensive and rigorously science based evidence analysis and interpretation of data all leading to conclusions and policy recommendations Furthermore it builds an understanding of the complexities and many challenges posed by the nuclear power option

Climate Action in a Globalizing World Carl Cassegard, Linda Soneryd, Hakan Thorn, Asa Wettergren, 2017-05-18 The existence and urgency of global climate change is a matter of scientific consensus Yet the global politics of climate change have been anything but consensual In this context a wave of global climate activism has emerged in the last decade in response to the perceived failure of the political negotiations This book provides a unique comparative study of environmental movements in USA Japan Denmark and Sweden analyzing their interaction with the international climate institutions of the United Nations with national governments and with currents in the global climate movement It documents how and why the movement evolved between the Copenhagen Summit of 2009 and the Paris Summit of 2015 altering its strategies and tactics while attracting new actors to the issue area Further it demonstrates how the development of global environmental networks has increased contact between environmental movements in the Global North and those from the Global South resulting in the establishment of climate justice as a political cause and unifying frame for global climate activism

Creating Subaltern Counterpublics A-gwi Sŏ, 2017 This is a study of a political and social movement instigated by older Korean women in Japan beginning in the 1990s Koreans in Japan have occupied an unique position among ethnic minority groups Until recently they constituted the largest group of foreign nationals yet they have been marginalized politically socially economically and culturally Korean women are doubly disadvantaged treated as inferior to men by both Korean and Japanese society Furthermore the first generation of Korean women migrants were not educated as children rendering them functionally illiterate and thus triply marginalized Late in life when family and work responsibilities became less onerous local authorities created educational opportunities which the women took up in unexpected numbers overloading the facilities The authorities responses effectively re marginalized them The elderly Korean women took a stance and in the process reconstituted themselves as social and political actors This book examines that self transformation process Series Japanese Society Series Subject Gender Studies Japanese Studies Korean Studies Migrant Studies
