Learning Objectives

- LO1 Describe the goals of taxonomic classification and phylogenetics.
- LO2 Identify the levels of the classification system derived by Linnaeus.

Learning Objectives

Assigning Scientific Names Biologists have a great diversity of organisms. Biologists categorize each organism as a taxon. Biologists also use taxonomic hierarchy to group organisms based on their similarities. Biologists use a classification system. The concept of naming and grouping organisms is called taxonomy.

Linnaeus (1707-1778) developed a naming system, called binomial nomenclature, to classify organisms. Each species is assigned a two-part scientific name.

- The first part of the name refers to the genus, or a group of similar species.
- The second part of the name is unique to each species.

Linnaeus's Classification System Linnaeus's system of classification has seven different levels. Biologists use a group of organisms, called taxon, to group similar organisms. Each of the ranking levels is called a taxon.

- Genus is a group of similar species, a family is a group of similar genera.
- An order is a group of similar families.
- A class is a group of similar orders.
- A phylum is a group of similar classes.
- A kingdom is a group of similar phyla.

Biodiversity, Ecosystem Functioning, and Human Wellbeing Shahid Naeem,Daniel E. Bunker,Andy Hector,Michel Loreau,Charles Perrings,2009-07-30 How will biodiversity loss affect ecosystem functioning ecosystem services and human well being In an age of accelerating biodiversity loss this timely and critical volume summarizes recent advances in biodiversity ecosystem functioning research and explores the economics of biodiversity and ecosystem services The book starts by summarizing the development of the basic science and provides a meta analysis that quantitatively tests several biodiversity and ecosystem functioning hypotheses It then describes the natural science foundations of biodiversity and ecosystem functioning research including quantifying functional diversity the development of the field into a predictive science the effects of stability and complexity methods to quantify mechanisms by which diversity affects functioning the importance of trophic structure microbial ecology and spatial dynamics Finally the book takes research on biodiversity and ecosystem functioning further than it has ever gone into the human dimension describing the most pressing environmental challenges that face humanity and the effects of diversity on climate change mitigation restoration of degraded habitats managed ecosystems pollination disease and biological invasions However what makes this volume truly unique are the chapters that consider the economic perspective These include a synthesis of the economics of ecosystem services and biodiversity and the options open to policy makers to address the failure of markets to account for the loss of ecosystem services an examination of the challenges of valuing ecosystem services and hence to understanding the human consequences of decisions that neglect these services and an examination of the ways in which economists are currently incorporating biodiversity and ecosystem functioning research into decision models for the conservation and management of biodiversity A final section describes new advances in ecoinformatics that will help transform this field into a globally predictive science and summarizes the advancements and future directions of the field The ultimate conclusion is that biodiversity is an essential element of any strategy for sustainable development

Reconsidering Race Kazuko Suzuki, Diego A. von Vacano, 2018-05-01 To better understand the idea of race in the postgenomic age social science ought to move beyond merely repeating the race is a social construct mantra This collection directly engages the interface between social scientific and natural scientific perspectives on race considering recent developments in genomics The book provides views that go beyond US centered or Western based paradigms on race
