Historical Dictionary of British Cinema Alan Burton, Steve Chibnall, 2013-07-11 British cinema has been around from the very birth of motion pictures from black and white to color from talkies to sound and now 3D it has been making a major contribution to world cinema Many of its actors and directors have stayed at home but others ventured abroad like Charlie Chaplin and Alfred Hitchcock Today it is still going strong the only real competition to Hollywood turning out films which appeal not only to Brits just think of Bridget Jones while busily adding to franchises like James Bond and Harry Potter So this Historical Dictionary of British Cinema has a lot of ground to cover This it does with over 300 dictionary entries informing us about significant actors producers and directors outstanding films and serials organizations and studios different films genres from comedy to horror and memorable films among other things Two appendixes provide lists of award winners Meanwhile the chronology covers over a century of history These parts provide the details countless details while the introduction offers the big story And the extensive bibliography points toward other sources of information

British Social Realism Samantha Lay, 2019-07-25 British Social Realism details and explores the rich tradition of social realism in British cinema from its beginnings in the documentary movement of the 1930s to its more stylistically eclectic and generically hybrid contemporary forms Samantha Lay examines the movements moments and cycles of British social realist texts through a detailed consideration of practice politics form style and content using case studies of key texts including Listen to Britain Saturday Night and Sunday Morning Letter to Brezhnev and Nil by Mouth In discussing the work of many prominent realist filmmakers the book considers the challenges for social realist film practice and production in Britain now and in the future

Social Class on British and American Screens Nicole Cloarec, David Haigron, Delphine Letort, 2016-01-28 At a time when debates about social inequality are in the spotlight it is worth examining how the two most popular media of the 20th and 21st centuries film and television have shaped the representation of social classes How do generic conventions determine the representation of social stereotypes How do filmmakers challenge social class identification How do factors such as national history geography and gender affect the representation of social classes This collection of new essays explores these and other questions through an analysis of a wide range of American and British productions from sitcoms and reality TV to documentaries and auteur cinema from the 1950s to the present

European Cinema Thomas Elsaesser, 2005 European Cinema in Crisis examines the conflicting terminologies that have dominated the discussion of the future of European film making It takes a fresh look at the ideological agendas from avant-garde cinema to the high-low culture debate and the fate of popular European cinema

British Cinema in the 1950's Ian MacKillop, Neil Sinyard, 2003-06-28 This book offers a startling re evaluation of what has until now been seen as the most critically lackluster period of the British cinema Twenty writers contribute essays that rediscover and reassess the productions of the Festival of Britain decade during which the vitality of wartime film making flowed into new forms Topics covered include genres such as the B film the war film the woman s picture the theatrical adaptation and comedy also social issues such as censorship and the screen representation of childhood
