Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean: Meeting the Challenge for Conserving Earth Ecosystems in the Long Term Monica M. C. Muelbert, 2024-12-24 National and international agencies need assessments of change in ecosystems and their drivers in order to sustain natural systems to maintain the delivery of services and to meet the challenge for conserving Earth ecosystems in the long term In marine systems change may arise directly from human activities e g fisheries indirectly from local or global activities cascading effects through food webs from fisheries or changing environments from climate change and or ocean acidification or from naturally varying processes A particular challenge for managers is to identify how dangerous future climate change will be for ecosystems and their services and whether mitigation or adaptation may be needed in advance in order to achieve the conservation requirements For regions of international attention particularly those that have the attention of many management or policy oriented bodies a standardized process is needed to harmonize the scientific information on the status and trends in ecosystems used by the different bodies That process also needs to ensure the information is available in a timely manner For example assessments of change in habitats species and or food webs in the Southern Ocean are currently compiled separately for at least ten different international organizations or processes A Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean MEASO aims to harmonize that information for policy makers This assessment began with an international conference in April 2018 <http://www.measo2018.aq> where it was agreed to undertake the first MEASO over 2018-2019 with the view to provide the outcomes to relevant bodies such as the Scientific Committee for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources soon after

Cost-Effective Energy Efficient Building Retrofitting F. Pacheco-Torgal, Claes-Göran Granqvist, Bjørn Peter Jelle, Giuseppe Peter Vanoli, Nicola Bianco, Jarek Kurnitski, 2017-01-03 Cost Effective Energy Efficient Building Retrofitting Materials Technologies Optimization and Case Studies provides essential knowledge for civil engineers architects and other professionals working in the field of cost effective energy efficient building retrofitting The building sector is responsible for high energy consumption and its global demand is expected to grow as each day there are approximately 200 000 new

inhabitants on planet Earth The majority of electric energy will continue to be generated from the combustion of fossil fuels releasing not only carbon dioxide but also methane and nitrous oxide Energy efficiency measures are therefore crucial to reduce greenhouse gas emissions of the building sector Energy efficient building retrofitting needs to not only be technically feasible but also economically viable New building materials and advanced technologies already exist but the knowledge to integrate all active components is still scarce and far from being widespread among building industry stakeholders

Emphasizes cost effective methods for the refurbishment of existing buildings presenting state of the art technologies

Includes detailed case studies that explain various methods and Net Zero Energy Explains optimal analysis and prioritization of cost effective strategies Healthy and energy efficient buildings Sunil K. Sansaniwal,Roberto Alonso

González-Lezcano,2023-12-21 This Research Topic on Healthy and Energy Efficient Buildings focuses on the emerging need for sustainable and healthy indoor environments The built environment contributes significantly to energy consumption and environmental degradation leading to adverse effects on human health and well being Therefore this Research Topic aims to bring together cutting edge research that addresses the complex interplay between building energy efficiency and occupant health The scope of the Research Topic covers topics such as energy efficiency indoor environmental quality sustainable energy health and well being building codes and standards energy management and green building practices The ultimate goal of the Research Topic is to promote sustainable building practices and enhance the well being of building occupants while reducing the environmental impact of buildings While energy efficiency has become a top priority in building design there has been less emphasis on creating indoor environments that are conducive to good health To achieve the goal of this Research Topic recent advances in building design construction and operation must be incorporated These include the use of advanced materials and technologies such as smart sensors and automation systems that can monitor and control indoor air quality temperature and lighting levels to create optimal indoor conditions for occupants Additionally the integration of renewable energy sources such as solar and wind power can help reduce the carbon footprint of buildings In order to promote healthy buildings there is a need for more research on the impact of building design and materials on indoor air quality and occupant health This includes exploring the use of natural ventilation and passive cooling strategies as well as the use of low emitting materials and finishes that do not off gas harmful chemicals This Research Topic seeks to address the need for sustainable buildings that prioritize both energy efficiency and occupant health
