American Scientists Nuclear Weapons Princeton:

American Scientists and Nuclear Weapons Policy Robert G. Gilpin, 2015-12-08 As this study traces the history of the dramatic intra scientific conflict over nuclear weapons which has developed since World War II it analyzes the politically relevant ideas attitudes and behavior of those scientists who have been influential in the formulation of American policy toward nuclear weapons The author contends that the emergence of the scientist into the mainstream of American political life is one of the great events of our history As he assays the situation he emphasizes the growing need for effective measures for integrating scientist advisers into national policy making processes This well documented book will be of lasting value to both scientists and public administrators and it will be of vital interest to all concerned with current problems of the nuclear era Originally published in 1962 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Hiroshima Andrew J. Rotter, 2008-02-28 The US decision to drop an atomic bomb on the Japanese city of Hiroshima on 6 August 1945 remains one of the most controversial events of the twentieth century However the controversy over the rights and wrongs of dropping the bomb has tended to obscure a number of fundamental and sobering truths about the development of this fearsome weapon The principle of killing thousands of enemy civilians from the air was already well established by 1945 and had been practised on numerous occasions by both sides during the Second World War Moreover the bomb dropped on Hiroshima was conceived and built by an international community of scientists not just by the Americans Other nations including Japan and Germany were also developing atomic bombs in the first half of the 1940s albeit haphazardly Indeed it is difficult to imagine any combatant nation foregoing the use of the bomb during the war had it been able to obtain one The international team of scientists organized by the Americans just got there first As this fascinating new history shows the bomb dropped by a US pilot that hot August morning in 1945 was in many ways the world's offspring in both a technological and a moral sense And it was the world that would have to face its consequences strategically diplomatically and culturally in the years ahead

Bridging the Theory-Practice Divide in International Relations Daniel Maliniak, Susan Peterson, Ryan Powers, Michael J. Tierney, 2020-05-01 There is a widening divide between the data tools and knowledge that international relations scholars produce and what policy practitioners find relevant for their work In this first of its kind conversation leading academics and practitioners reflect on the nature and size of the theory practice divide They find the gap varies by issue area and over time The essays in this volume use data gathered by the Teaching Research and International Policy TRIP Project over a fifteen year period As a whole the volume analyzes the structural factors that affect the academy's ability to influence policy across issue areas and the professional incentives that affect scholars willingness to attempt to do so Individual chapters explore these questions in the areas of trade finance human rights development environment nuclear weapons and strategy interstate war and intrastate conflict Each substantive chapter is followed by a response from a policy practitioner providing their perspective on the gap and the possibility for academic work to have an impact Bridging the Theory Practice Divide in International Relations provides concrete answers and guidance about how and when scholarship can be policy relevant

Military planning in the twentieth century , Special Bibliography Series United States Air Force Academy. Library,195? Special Bibliography Series ,1957 Military Planning in the Twentieth Century Mary Ann Robinson,1984 The essays commentaries and speeches which form this volume were presented at the Eleventh Military History Symposium held at the United States Air Force Academy on 10 12 October 1984 This conference is a biennial event sponsored jointly by the Department of History and the Association of Graduates of the United States Air Force Academy Begun in 1967 the series seeks to address problems in military history which have received limited attention and to provide a forum in which scholars may present the results of their research In this manner we hope to stimulate and encourage interest in military history among civilian and military scholars members of the armed forces and the cadets of the United States Air Force Academy Science, Technology and Global Governance John R. De La Mothe,2014-04-23 Science technology and innovation have long been key factors in the competitive advantage of nations Today however the new international political economy is being increasingly driven by science and technology in new ways Integration globalization and internationalization have all become watchwords for a series of dynamic processes in which science and technology are deeply implicated As a result not only are the policies of national governments being exposed in terms of the limits of their sovereignty but science and technology are being increasingly implicated in a wide array of public issues ranging from security privacy development and economic growth to employment environment foreign policy and geopolitics Clearly in today s emerging world the ways in which governments organize their science and technology policy their science and technology intelligence and their research advisory structures and resources matter more today than ever before In turn the contract between science and democracy is being rapidly redefined This book is the first to comprehensively discuss these critical issues International Plutonium Control Act--H.R. 2403 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs,1990 City Politics and Planning Francine F. Rabinovitz, Discusses some of the factors determining the political impact of the city planner on community decision making This book also uses a reanalysis of an attitude survey of US planning directors as well as a synthesis of previous studies It discusses the variables that influence the effectiveness of planning
