Income Inequality Maarten van Ham, Tiit Tammaru, Rūta Ubarevičienė, Heleen Janssen, 2021-03-29 This open access book investigates the link between income inequality and socio economic residential segregation in 24 large urban regions in Africa Asia Australia Europe North America and South America It offers a unique global overview of segregation trends based on case studies by local author teams The book shows important global trends in segregation and proposes a Global Segregation Thesis Rising inequalities lead to rising levels of socio economic segregation almost everywhere in the world

Levels of inequality and segregation are higher in cities in lower income countries but the growth in inequality and segregation is faster in cities in high income countries This is causing convergence of segregation trends Professionalisation of the workforce is leading to changing residential patterns High income workers are moving to city centres or to attractive coastal areas and gated communities while poverty is increasingly suburbanising As a result the urban geography of inequality changes faster and is more pronounced than changes in segregation levels Rising levels of inequality and segregation pose huge challenges for the future social sustainability of cities as cities are no longer places of opportunities for all

Nutrition and Vulnerable Groups Amanda Devine,Tanya Lawlis,2019-06-17 Food insecurity is a complex wicked problem that results from a range of unstable and uncertain physical social cultural and economic factors that limits access to nutritious food Globally 800 million people are under nourished and around 2 billion are overweight obese or have micronutrient deficiency These populations are largely positioned in developing countries where disease burden is high and impacts health budgets and productivity Similarly developed countries cities and neighbourhoods are experiencing a greater emergence of vulnerable populations This is in part explained by the change in the food production and manufacturing the retraction in economic climates the increase in food price and in some regions reduced food availability and access Vulnerable groups include but are not limited to migrant populations Indigenous people elderly pregnant women those with disability homeless young children and youth Poor nutrition at significant periods of growth and development and during life impact long term health outcomes increasing non communicable disease prevalence health cost and reducing economic productivity

Service Design Capabilities Nicola Morelli,Amalia de Götzen,Luca Simeone,2020-08-27 This open access book discusses service design capabilities in innovation processes and provides a framework that guides design students practitioners and researchers towards a better understanding of operational aspects of service design processes More specifically it revisits service designers capabilities in light of the new roles that have opened up in innovation processes on different scales After years of being inadequately defined the professional profile of service designers is now taking shape Today private and public institutions recognize service designers as essential contributors to their innovation and development processes What are the capabilities that characterize a service designer These essential capabilities are what service designers should acquire in their education and can sell when looking for a job
