Automated Reasoning And Its Applications Essays In Honor Of Larry Wos:

Automated Reasoning and Its Applications Robert Veroff, Gail W. Pieper, 1997 The contributors are among the world's leading researchers in automated reasoning. Their essays cover the theory, software, system design and use of these systems to solve real problems. The primary objective of automated reasoning, which includes automated deduction and automated theorem proving, is to develop computer programs that use logical reasoning for the solution of a wide variety of problems, including open questions. The essays in Automated Reasoning and Its Applications were written in honor of Larry Wos, one of the founders of the field. Wos played a central role in forming the culture of automated reasoning at Argonne National Laboratory. He and his colleagues consistently seek to build systems that search huge spaces for solutions to difficult problems and proofs of significant theorems. They have had numerous notable successes. The contributors are among the world's leading researchers in automated reasoning. Their essays cover the theory, software, system design and use of these systems to solve real problems. Contributors: Robert S. Boyer, Shang Ching Chou, Xiao Shan Gao, Lawrence Henschen, Deepak Kapur, Kenneth Kunen, Ewing Lusk, William McCune, J. Strother Moore, Ross Overbeek, Lawrence C. Paulson, Hantao Zhang, Jing Zhong Zhang. Artificial Intelligence Today Michael J. Wooldridge, Manuela Veloso, 2007-03-06 Artificial Intelligence is one of the most fascinating and unusual areas of academic study to have emerged this century. For some, AI is a true scientific discipline that has made important and fundamental contributions to the use of computation for our understanding of nature and phenomena of the human mind; for others, AI is the black art of computer science. Artificial Intelligence Today provides a showcase for the field of AI as it stands today. The editors invited contributions both from traditional subfields of AI, such as theorem proving, as well as from subfields that have emerged more recently, such as agents, AI and the Internet, or synthetic actors. The papers themselves are a mixture of more specialized research papers and authoritative survey papers. The secondary purpose of this book is to celebrate Springer Verlag's Lecture Notes in Artificial Intelligence series.

Automated Reasoning and Mathematics Maria Paola Bonacina, Mark E. Stickel, 2013-02-28 This Festschrift volume is published in memory of William W. McCune, who passed away in 2011. William W. McCune was an accomplished computer scientist all around, but especially a fantastic system builder and software engineer. The volume includes 13 full papers, which are presenting research in all aspects of automated reasoning and its applications to mathematics. These papers have been thoroughly reviewed and selected out of 15 submissions received in response to the call for papers issued in September 2011. The topics covered are strategies, indexing, superposition, based theorem proving, model building, application of automated reasoning to mathematics, as well as to program verification, data mining, and computer formalized mathematics.
