A Narrative Theology of the New Testament Timo Eskola,2015-07-21 Focusing on the metanarrative of exile and restoration Timo Eskola claims that a post liberal narrative New Testament theology is both consistent and explanative Combining a post New Quest perspective on Jesus with an eschatological reading of Paul the author states that Jesus temple criticism aims at restoration eschatology Jesus starts a priestly community that expects God s jubilee to begin with Jesus work and proceed with the preaching of the new gospel The reception of this message in the post Easter church results in resurrection Christology that proclaims Jesus Davidic kingship on God s throne of glory Both Paul and Jewish Christian teachers later present Christ s community as a new temple where believers serve the Lord as priests of the new covenant Furthermore restoration eschatology provides a new basis for understanding Paul s contrast with the words of the law and his teaching of justification Blood Talk Susan Gillman,2003-09-15 In this study Susan Gillman explores America during the years from the end of Reconstruction to the First World War and the rise during this period of a remarkable genre the

Rødje, 2016-03-09 Through studying images of blood in film from the mid 1950s to the end of the 1960s this path breaking book explores how blood as an audio visual cinematic element went from predominately operating as a signifier providing audiences with information about a film's plot and characters to increasingly operating in terms of affect potentially evoking visceral and embodied responses in viewers Using films such as The Return of Dracula The Tinseltown Boy Blood Feast Two Thousand Maniacs Color Me Blood Red Bonnie and Clyde and The Wild Bunch Rødje takes a novel approach to film history by following one audio visual element through an exploration that traverses established standards for film production and reception This study does not heed distinctions regarding to genres horror western gangster or models of film production exploitation independent studio productions but rather maps the operations of cinematic images across marginal as well as more traditionally esteemed cinematic territories The result is a book that rethinks and reassembles cinematic practices as well as aesthetics and as such invites new ways to investigate how cinematic images enter relations with other images as well as with audiences The Art of Shrinking Heads Dany-Robert Dufour, 2008 After the hell of the Nazis and the terror of Communism it is possible that a new catastrophe has appeared on the horizon this time it is neoliberalism that wants to create its own new man For two centuries Kant's critical subject and Freud's neurotic subject provided us with philosophical templates for modernity but today modern capitalism is systematically destroying these two subjects and replacing them with something new The two subjects of modernity both presupposed some reference to a higher value or power like Reason which provided a symbolic guarantor but neoliberalism by emphasizing the exchange of commodities in the marketplace destroys all transcendental references of this kind Now human beings no longer look beyond themselves and no longer have to agree about symbolic values they only have to get on with the circulation and consumption of goods Deprived of his faculty of judgement and urged to enjoy himself without restraint the new man of neoliberalism takes centre stage in the era of global capitalism In this biting critique of our contemporary condition Dufour shows that the radical transformation of the subject brought about by neoliberalism what he calls the art of shrinking heads contains a new kind of violence which has far reaching consequences for our ways of living together
