Architecture And The American Dream:

Architecture and the American Dream Craig Whitaker, 1996 We admire a building or a group of buildings because they express however subtly certain images and ideas we have about ourselves In this riveting study Craig Whitaker reinterprets the American architectural landscape as the manifest vision of our collective conscience Asserting that the built environment is shaped largely by cultural values Whitaker dissects American architecture by revealing its archetypes and analyzing their origins in the national psyche The result is a superbly evocative essay on how Americans think and live and how these spheres are combined in our architecture On a grand scale Whitaker examines the ways in which our architectural eclecticism is rooted in the democratic notion of individual liberty upon which this nation was founded From New York to St Louis to Los Angeles and all of the towns in between these shared values have created a landscape that at first appears chaotic but is in fact remarkably homogeneous The grid plan of most American cities he argues connotes equality and a refusal to acknowledge the hierarchies of the past while issues of privacy and public display permeate the orientation of our homes and streets And the open road has been raised to the level of a cultural icon expressing ideas unique to this country ideas of mobility and freedom progress and communication By continuously peeling away the layers of meaning that clearly signify national obsessions Whitaker lucidly documents the way in which America has grown and developed for better and for worse In a multidisciplinary fashion drawing on art and literature history and politics film and advertising he takes in the whole of American culture high and low Compelling and thought provoking Architecture and the American Dream is certain to give Americans a new perspective from which to define themselves in relation to their environment

The Strip Stefan Al, 2022-03-22 The transformations of the Strip from the fake Wild West to neon signs twenty stories high to starchitecture and how they mirror America itself The Las Vegas Strip has impersonated the Wild West with saloon doors and wagon wheels it has decked itself out in midcentury modern sleekness It has illuminated itself with twenty story high neon signs then junked them After that came Disney like theme parks featuring castles and pirates followed by replicas of Venetian canals New York skyscrapers and the Eiffel Tower It might be noted that forty two million people visited Las Vegas in 2015 ten million more than visited the real Paris More recently the Strip decided to get classy with casinos designed by famous architects and zillion dollar collections of art Las Vegas became the implosion capital of the world as developers driven by competition got rid of the old to make way for the new offering a non metaphorical definition of creative destruction In The Strip Stefan Al examines the many transformations of the Las Vegas Strip arguing that they mirror transformations in America itself The Strip is not as popularly supposed a display of architectural freaks but representative of architectural trends and a record of social cultural and economic change Al tells two parallel stories He describes the feverish competition of Las Vegas developers to build the snazziest most tourist grabbing casinos and resorts with a cast of characters including the mobster Bugsy Siegel the eccentric billionaire Howard Hughes and the would be political kingmaker Sheldon Adelson

And he views the Strip in a larger social context showing that it has not only reflected trends but also magnified them and sometimes even initiated them Generously illustrated with stunning color images throughout The Strip traces the many metamorphoses of a city that offers a vivid projection of the American dream World War II and the American Dream Margaret Crawford,1995 with essays by Peter S Reed Robert Friedel Margaret Crawford Greg Hise Joel Davidson and Michael Sorkin Among the legacies of World War II was a massive building program on a scale that America had not seen before and has not seen since The war effort created thousands of factories homes even entire cities throughout the country Many of these structures still stand the physical evidence of an unprecedented ability to harness the power and resources of a people The complex legacy of this most notable period in our nation s history is discussed from a different perspective by each contributor Peter S Reed Associate Curator of the Department of Architecture and Design at the Museum of Modern Art details the rise of modern architecture during the war housing designs that used the latest ideas in prefabricated construction methods lightweight materials innovative technologies and a corporate and institutional aesthetic that helped popularize modernism as the appropriate image of American industrial might and corporate success Robert Friedel Professor of History at the University of Maryland documents the development of new materials especially plastics and discusses techniques for employing traditional materials in novel ways Margaret Crawford Chair of the History and Theory of Architecture Program at the Southern California Institute of Architecture explores the struggle of women and blacks for public housing Greg Hise Assistant Professor in the School of Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Southern California considers how the construction of large scale residential communities near defense plants prefigured postwar suburbia Joel Davidson historian of the World War II and the American Dream exhibition analyzes the impact of the war s building program on the postwar military industrial complex Finally Michael Sorkin architect and writer explores the migration of certain values and aesthetics from the necessities of war to the choices of peace Among these are images of speed camouflage ruin totalization and flight Copublished with The National Building Museum Washington D C Re: American Dream ,1995 Every socially responsible architect should peruse this book and it should be made compulsory reading for every public housing official and developer Michael Webb L A Architect Morris Lapidus Morris Lapidus,Martina Düttmann,Friederike Schneider,1992-01-01 Overzicht van het werk van de Amerikaanse architect Pride of Place Robert A.
