Brown Alumni Monthly, Vol. 69 Robert A. Reichley, 2016-12-28 Excerpt from Brown Alumni Monthly Vol 69 January 1969 Discussions continued through the early fall and some progress was made But it is apparent now that the University underestimated the seriousness of the problem as well as what it should and could do to solve it When the disagreement between the University and the black students burst into full view in December triggered through the mass media were seven days of fragmentary information some of it untrue and most of it superficial Until the Providence Journal set the record straight with a full blown story in its editorial section Trend on Sunday Dec 15 Friends and alumni of the University were exposed to a week of confusing rhetoric careless verbiage and incomplete reports especially from the standpoint of background For what had begun almost as a Gandhian like protest suddenly was blown out of proportion Brown in a matter of hours occupied newspaper front pages and radio and telecasts alongside the violence at San Francisco State One front page carried a picture of the violence at San Francisco State just above a story from Brown Newsweek magazine said in its education section that minor and sometimes bizarre skirmishes were fought at Brown and on other campuses A Boston newspaper said a virtual revolt had been averted at Brown through the University's agreement on the new policy And closest to the scene the Providence newspapers played with such phrases as Brown gives in accedes to many variations of an untrue statement that Brown had adopted a quota system for black students and implications that Brown would indeed have to surrender its academic respectability in order to meet the quota About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

It was some years ago that James Thurber wrote in the foreword of one of his books that he hoped people would not look back in anger or forward in fear but around in awareness As the academic year began on the nation's campuses it was clear that some were still looking back in anger and too many saw the future in terms of fear and anxiety The hopeful sign was that there appeared to be an increase in those who viewed the scene with awareness During the summer of watchful waiting those involved in education were asked the inevitable question What kind of year are you facing At an assortment of meetings and conferences all flying the banners of student and national unrest the predictable answer was worse Even those who were optimistic were loathe to say so no whistling past the graveyard for them The war is not over relations between the races loom ever larger as a dilemma to be met squarely and immediately and then there is the plight of the cities About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an
