Environmental Information in Instructions for Use of Consumer Products Ari Nissinen, 2005-03-11 The European Union has highlighted the issue of environmentally sound use of products in the context of Integrated Product Policy IPP. Accordingly, consumers should have easy access to understandable relevant and credible environmental information. Information about product characteristics is available in different forms and sources but in many cases relevant environmental information is not available on the product itself. The study described in this report was initiated in order to produce information on the state of user instructions regarding environmental information. User manuals of passenger cars and refrigerators were focused on examining the advice which could diminish the harmful environmental effects of the use of these products. Other studied products included such durable products as textiles and furniture as well as such consumables as cleaning chemicals and recyclable paper products. The study raised many ideas about actions that could promote the status and eco development of instructions for use. Audi Owners Workshop Manual A. K. Legg, 1983

This book is dedicated to user experience design for automated driving to address humane aspects of automated driving e.g. workload, safety, trust, ethics and acceptance. Automated driving has experienced a major development boost in recent years. However, most of the research and implementation has been technology driven rather than human centered. The levels of automated driving have been poorly defined and inconsistently used. A variety of application scenarios and restrictions has been ambiguous. Also, it deals with human factors design practices and methods as well as applications such as multimodal infotainment, virtual reality, augmented reality and interactions in and outside users. This book aims at 1) providing engineers, designers and practitioners with a broad overview of the state of the art user experience research in automated driving to speed up the implementation of automated vehicles and 2) helping researchers and students benefit from various perspectives and approaches to generate new research ideas and conduct more integrated research.
