the story of the growing effects of climate change on her land in the pine covered foothills of southern Colorado Climate change wasn't yet on the public radar when Young and her husband bought their piece of the wild in 1995 They built a cabin set up a trail of bluebird nest boxes and began a nature journal of observations delighting in the ceaseless dramas joys and tragedies that are the fabric of life in the wild But changes greater than the seasonal cycles of nature became evident over time increasing drought wildfires bears delaying hibernation and the decline of familiar birds and appearance of new species Their journal of sightings over twenty five bluebird seasons she realized was a record of climate change happening not in an Indonesian rainforest or on an Antarctic ice sheet but in their own natural neighborhood Using the journal as a chronicle of change Young tells a story echoed in everyone's lives and backyards But it's not time to despair she writes It's time to act Young sees hope in the human ability to overcome great obstacles in the energy and determination of young people and in nature's resilience which the bluebirds show season after season
