Corporate Governance in Asia Julian Roche, 2005-02-01 The impact of the economic downturn and the increase in financial scandals emerging from major corporations has generated a growing interest in governance issues and has emphasized the need for companies to be transparent in their dealings with shareholders and the markets Although the issues in Asia are fundamentally similar to those in the rest of the world there are some crucial differences in the way in which Asian corporations acknowledge and confront these issues and in the political and legal frameworks under which they operate Using examples of good and bad governance Roche analyzes if the Asian approach to governance issues is unique Business and finance students as well as executives with an interest in Asian business or corporate governance will find this an authoritative and insightful guide to this complex and important topic

Accountability for public money Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2011-04-05 This Public Accounts Committee report addresses an issue at the core of the relationship between Parliament and government accountability for public spending The Committee is interested in the implications for accountability of two recent developments the governance reforms which include Ministers chairing departmental boards and greater non executive involvement in those boards and the reform and localism proposals which envisage a significant devolution of responsibility for service delivery to a wide range of new bodies in some cases independent of both central and local government The reform and localism proposals raised fundamental points about the current model of accountability which the report explores In practice government has long chosen to discharge accountability through the senior civil servant in each department the Accounting Officer Government vests in each Accounting Officer a direct and personal accountability to Parliament for his or her department's stewardship of public funds While significant sums are spent locally local taxes account for just 5% of revenue raised and so the overwhelming majority of public spending in the UK is routed through departments and is the responsibility of the departmental Accounting Officer Parliament vests responsibility in the Public

Accounts Committee to hold Accounting Officers accountable on its behalf Sir Bob Kerslake has been appointed to review how the policy objectives of the reform and localism agenda might be reconciled with the current accountability model based on the Accounting Officer The Committee sets out its fundamental elements for an effective accountability model
