M. Kommers, 2004 This book addresses the various aspects of computational support systems for learners nowadays It highlights in particular those learning aspects that rely heavily upon one's imagination of knowledge and new ideas The question is how learners may become more effective through the use of highly graphical computer systems that now conquer almost every desk As an extrapolation of the constructionistic paradigm learning is seen here as a process of conceptual design Witnessing the prudent introduction of CADD software Computer Aided Drafting and Design it is obvious that users are generally scrupulous to accept the computer in the ideational stages of design This book presents both existing conceptual techniques and those estimated to arrive in the few coming years EP '98 Roger Hersch, Jacques Andre, Heather Brown, 1998-03-18 This book presents the refereed proceedings of the EP 98 and RIDT 98 conferences held jointly during the Second International Week on Electronic Publishing and Typography in St Malo France in March April 1998 The 43 revised full papers presented were carefully selected for inclusion in the book Among the topics covered are artistic imaging tools and methods in typography non latin type typographic creation imaging character recognition handwriting models legibility and design issues fonts and design time and multimedia electronic and paper documents document engineering documents and linguistics document reuse hypertext and the Web and hypertext creation and management Siglink Newsletter, 1998 Adaptive Hypertext and Hypermedia Peter Brusilovsky, Alfred Kobsa, Julita Vassileva, 2013-04-17 Hypertext hypermedia systems and user model based adaptive systems in the areas of learning and information retrieval have for a long time been considered as two mutually exclusive approaches to information access Adaptive systems tailor information to the user and may guide the user in the information space to present the most relevant material taking into account a model of the user's goals interests and preferences Hypermedia systems on the other hand are user neutral they provide the user with the tools and the freedom to explore an information space by browsing through a complex network of information nodes Adaptive hypertext and hypermedia systems attempt to bridge the gap between these two approaches Adaptation of hypermedia systems to each individual user is increasingly needed With the growing size complexity and heterogeneity of current hypermedia systems such as the World Wide Web it becomes virtually impossible to impose guidelines on authors concerning the overall organization of hypermedia information The networks therefore become so complex and unstructured that the existing navigational tools are no longer powerful enough to provide orientation on where to search for the needed information. It is also not possible to identify appropriate pre defined paths or subnets for users with certain goals and knowledge backgrounds since the user community of hypermedia systems is usually quite inhomogeneous. This is particularly true for Web based applications which are expected to be used by a much greater variety of users than any earlier standalone application. A possible remedy for the negative effects of the traditional one size fits all approach in the development of hypermedia systems is to equip them with the ability to adapt to the needs of their individual users. A possible way of achieving adaptivity is by modeling the users and tailoring the system's interactions to their goals, tasks and interests. In this sense the notion of adaptive hypertext/hypermedia comes naturally to denote a hypertext or hypermedia system which reflects some features of the user and/or characteristics of his system usage in a user model and utilizes this model in order to adapt various behavioral aspects of the system to the user. This book is the first comprehensive publication on adaptive hypertext and hypermedia. It is oriented towards researchers and practitioners in the fields of hypertext and hypermedia information systems and personalized systems. It is also an important resource for the numerous developers of Web based applications. The design decisions, adaptation methods and experience presented in this book are a unique source of ideas and techniques for developing more usable and more intelligent Web based systems suitable for a great variety of users. The practitioners will find it important that many of the adaptation techniques presented in this book have proved to be efficient and are ready to be used in various applications.
