Apartheid, 1948-1994 Saul Dubow, 2014-05-23 This new study offers a fresh interpretation of apartheid South Africa Emerging out of the author's long standing interests in the history of racial segregation and drawing on a great deal of new scholarship archival collections and personal memoirs he situates apartheid in global as well as local contexts The overall conception of Apartheid 1948 1994 is to integrate studies of resistance with the analysis of power paying attention to the importance of ideas institutions and culture Saul Dubow refamiliarises and defamiliarises apartheid so as to approach South Africa's white supremacist past from unlikely perspectives He asks not only why apartheid was defeated but how it survived so long He neither presumes the rise of apartheid nor its demise This synoptic reinterpretation is designed to introduce students to apartheid and to generate new questions for experts in the field

Ordinary Whites in Apartheid Society Neil Roos, 2024-02-06 How were whites implicated in and shaped by apartheid culture and society and how did they contribute to it In Ordinary Whites in Apartheid Society historian Neil Roos traces the lives of ordinary white people in South Africa during the apartheid years beginning in 1948 when the National Party swept into power on the back of its catchall apartheid slogan Drawing on his own family's story and others Roos explores how working class whites frequently defied particular aspects of the apartheid state but seldom opposed or even acknowledged the idea of racial supremacy which lay at the heart of the apartheid society This cognitive dissonance afforded them a way to simultaneously accommodate and oppose apartheid and allowed them to later claim they never supported the apartheid system Ordinary Whites in Apartheid Society offers a telling reminder that the politics and practice of race in this case apartheid era whiteness derive not only from the top but also from the bottom

The Ghetto in Global History Wendy Z. Goldman, Joe William Trotter, Jr., 2017-11-27 The Ghetto in Global History explores the stubborn tenacity of the ghetto over time As a concept policy and experience the ghetto has served to maintain social religious and racial hierarchies over the past five centuries Transnational in scope this book allows readers to draw thought provoking comparisons across time and space among ghettos that are not usually studied alongside one another The volume is structured around four main case studies covering the first ghettos created for Jews in early modern Europe the Nazis use of ghettos the enclosure of African Americans in segregated areas in the United States and the extreme segregation of blacks in South Africa The contributors explore issues of discourse power and control examine the internal structures of authority that prevailed and document the lived experiences of ghetto inhabitants By discussing ghettos as both tools of control and as sites of resistance this book offers an unprecedented and fascinating range of interpretations of the meanings of the ghetto throughout history It allows us to trace the circulation of the idea and practice over time and across continents revealing new linkages between widely disparate settings Geographically and chronologically wide ranging The Ghetto in Global History will prove indispensable reading for all those interested in the history of spatial segregation power dynamics and racial and religious relations across the globe

The Vaal Uprising of 1984 & the Struggle for Freedom in South Africa Franziska Rueedi, 2021 Offers new insights into the struggle against Apartheid and the poverty and inequality that instigated political resistance

Space, Curriculum and Learning David Scott, 2006-01-01 In recent years there has been increasing interest in issues of space and spatiality in the social sciences and humanities generally if less so in the study of education This relative lack of interest is surprising given the importance of space and time in the organization of teaching learning and research For instance the timetable and project timeline are central to the organization of learning and knowledge production whether in schools colleges or universities Classrooms workshops and laboratories have different spatial layouts which support certain forms of interaction and communication When we add to this the increasing distances across which knowledge understanding and competence are being distributed through the use of information and communications technologies the fact that issues of space have not been taken up seems more than an oversight This relative lack of interest in space becomes even more surprising when one considers the extensive use of spatial metaphors in the discussion of education and pedagogy For instance the notions of open distance and distributed learning and student centredness border crossing and communities of practice all have a spatial dimension to them Notions of a spiral curriculum act as a spatial imaginary Indeed some metaphors such as flexibility seem to be suggestive of the possibility that all constraints of space and time can be conquered in the provision of learning opportunities throughout life This collection of chapters from researchers around the world attempts to address these issues to examine the significance of space for curriculum learning and identity
