God and Knowledge Nathaniel Gray Sutanto, 2020-02-20 Nathaniel Gray Sutanto offers a fresh reading of Herman Bavinck's theological epistemology and argues that his Trinitarian and organic worldview utilizes an extensive range of sources. Sutanto unfolds Bavinck's understanding of what he considered to be the two most important aspects of epistemology: the character of the sciences and the correspondence between subjects and objects. Writing at the heels of the European debates in the 19th and 20th century concerning theology's place in the academy and rooted in historic Christian teachings, Sutanto demonstrates how Bavinck's argument remains fresh and provocative. This volume explores archival material and peripheral works translated for the first time in English. The author re-reads several key concepts ranging from Organicism to the Absolute and relates Bavinck's work to Thomas Aquinas, Eduard von Hartmann, and other thinkers. Sutanto applies this reading to current debates on the relationship between theology and philosophy, nature and grace, and the nature of knowing and in doing so provides students and scholars with fresh methods of considering Orthodox and modern forms of thought and their connection with each other.

Theology as the Science of God Ximian Xu, 2022-06-13 The revival of Calvinism in the nineteenth-century Netherlands entailed the neo-Calvinist movement. With Abraham Kuyper, Herman Bavinck became a brand name of neo-Calvinism. Nonetheless, not until the first decade of the twenty-first century was scholarly interest in Bavinck's work increasing. The conventional two-Bavincks model used to read his work for much of the twentieth century argues that some contradictory and irreconcilable themes do exist in Bavinck's system, which makes Bavinck a self-contradictory thinker. This dualistic reading characterised most of Bavinck scholars in the second half of the twentieth century. Since James Eglinton's new reading of Bavinck's organic motif, the conventional model became untenable, and scholars are seeking for a reunited Herman Bavinck. Bavinck as a holistic theologian has become the industry standard of Bavinck studies. Ximian Xu aims on the one hand to maintain one Bavinck, on the other hand, and more importantly, to fill in a notable gap in Bavinck scholarship that is no single work hitherto has focused on Bavinck's idea of theology as the wetenschap (science) of God. This study demonstrates that the idea of scientific wetenschappelijke (scientific) theology furnishes the meta-paradigm and cardinal model that incorporates the fundamental characteristics and themes of Bavinck's dogmatic system. Moreover, it argues that Bavinck's scientific theology makes an attempt to engage with the other sciences. Given this, Bavinck's scientific theology is relevant today. That is, Bavinck's theological insights can be deployed to advance theology's engagement with the other sciences in contemporary secular universities.

The Heart of Dogmatics Bruce R. Pass, 2020-11-16 The Christocentric character of Herman Bavinck's thought has long been acknowledged, but an analysis of Bavinck's Christocentrism has not been forthcoming. The Heart of Dogmatics redresses this situation, offering a comprehensive study of Bavinck's concept of a Christocentric theological system. Building on the more recent secondary literature, Pass draws attention to many unexplored avenues in Bavinck's writings. In particular, Pass sheds light on the intimate connection between Bavinck's christocentrism and his organicism Delving deeply into Bavinck's appropriation of Reformed Orthodoxy and German Idealism Pass presents a compelling account of this thinker's attempt to establish Neo Calvinism as a modern orthodoxy By way of conclusion pertinent ways in which Bavinck's christocentrism may prove a useful resource for contemporary projects of theological retrieval are explored in a comparison of Bavinck and John Webster

The Logic of the Body Matthew A. LaPine, 2020-11-04 Do not be anxious about anything When it comes to stress and worry that's all we really need to say right Just repent of your anxiety and everything will be fine But emotional life is more complex than this In The Logic of the Body Matthew LaPine argues that Protestants must retrieve theological psychology in order to properly understand the emotional life of the human person With classical and modern resources in tow LaPine argues that one must not choose between viewing emotions exclusively as either cognitive and volitional on the one hand or simply a feeling of bodily change on the other The two stories can be reconciled through a robustly theological analysis In a culture filled with worry and anxiety The Logic of the Body offers a fresh path within the Reformed tradition
