Assessment Learning And Judgement In Higher Education:

Assessment, Learning and Judgement in Higher Education Gordon Joughin, 2008-12-11 There has been a remarkable growth of interest in the assessment of student learning and its relation to the process of learning in higher education over the past ten years This interest has been expressed in various ways through large scale research projects international conferences the development of principles of assessment that supports learning a growing awareness of the role of feedback as an integral part of the learning process and the publication of exemplary assessment practices At the same time more limited attention has been given to the underlying nature of assessment to the concerns that arise when assessment is construed as a measurement process and to the role of judgement in evaluating the quality of students work It is now timely to take stock of some of the critical concepts that underpin our understanding of the multifarious relationships between assessment and learning and to explicate the nature of assessment as judgement Despite the recent growth in interest noted above assessment in higher education remains under conceptualized This book seeks to make a significant contribution to conceptualizing key aspects of assessment learning and judgement Developing Evaluative Judgement in Higher Education David Boud, Rola Ajjawi, Phillip Dawson, Joanna Tai, 2018-04-19 A key skill to be mastered by graduates today is the ability to assess the quality of their own work and the work of others This book demonstrates how the higher education system might move away from a culture of unhelpful grades and rigid marking schemes to focus instead on forms of feedback and assessment that develop the critical skills of its students Tracing the historical and sociocultural development of evaluative judgement and bringing together evidence and practice design from a range of disciplines this book demystifies the concept of evaluative judgement and shows how it might be integrated and encouraged in a range of pedagogical contexts Contributors develop various understandings of this often poorly understood concept and draw on their experience to showcase a toolbox of strategies including peer learning self regulated learning self assessment and the use of technologies A key text for those working with students in the higher education system Developing Evaluative Judgement in Higher Education will give readers the knowledge and confidence required to promote these much needed skills when working with individual students and groups Rethinking Assessment in Higher Education David Boud, Nancy Falchikov, 2007-03-28 Assessment is a value laden activity surrounded by debates about academic standards preparing students for employment measuring quality and providing incentives There is substantial evidence that assessment rather than teaching has the major influence on students learning It directs attention to what is important and acts as an incentive for study This book revisits assessment in higher education examining it from the point of view of what assessment does and can do and argues that assessment should be seen as an act of informing judgement and proposes a way of integrating teaching learning and assessment to better prepare students for a lifetime of learning It is essential reading for practitioners and policy makers in higher education institutions in different countries as well as for educational development and
