Austronesian Taiwan Linguistics History Ethnology Prehistory:

Austronesian Taiwan, 2001 Historical Archaeology of Early Modern Colonialism in Asia-Pacific Maria Cruz Berrocal, Cheng-hwa Tsang, 2017-12-19 The essential source for scholarly reassessment of the Asia Pacific region's diverse and significant archaeology and history James P Delgado coauthor of The Maritime Landscape of the Isthmus of Panama Underpins a nuanced picture of Asia Pacific that shows how the activities of the Chinese and Japanese in East Asia the spread of Islam from South Asia and the efforts of the Iberians and especially the Spanish from southern Europe ushered in a world of complex interaction and rapid and often profound change in local regional and wider cultural patterns Ian Lilley editor of Archaeology of Oceania Australia and the Pacific Islands The history of Asia Pacific since 1500 has traditionally been told with Europe as the main player ushering in a globalized capitalist world But these volumes help decentralize that global history revealing that preexisting trade networks and local authorities influenced the region before and long after Europeans arrived In the volume The Southwest Pacific and Oceanian Regions case studies from Alofi Vanuatu the Marianas Hawaii Guam and Taiwan compare the development of colonialism across different islands Contributors discuss human settlement before the arrival of Dutch French British and Spanish explorers tracing major exchange routes that were active as early as the tenth century They highlight rarely examined sixteenth and seventeenth century encounters between indigenous populations and Europeans and draw attention to how cross cultural interaction impacted the local peoples of Oceania The volume The Asia Pacific Region looks at colonialism in the Philippines China Japan and Vietnam emphasizing the robust trans regional networks that existed before European contact Southeast Asia had long been influenced by Buddhist Hindu and Muslim traders in ways that helped build the region's ethnic and political divisions Essays show the complexity and significance of maritime trade during European colonization by investigating galleon wrecks in Manila Japan's porcelain exports and Spanish coins discovered off China's coast Packed with archaeological and historical evidence from both land and underwater sites impressive in geographical scope and featuring perspectives of scholars from many different countries and traditions these volumes illuminate the often misunderstood nature of early colonialism in Asia Pacific Austronesian Diaspora and the Ethnogeneses of People in Indonesian Archipelago Truman Simanjuntak, Ingrid Harriet Eileen Pojoh, Muhamad Hisyam, 2006 The Colonisation and Settlement of Taiwan, 1684-1945 Ruiping Ye, 2018-09-03 The dispossession of indigenous peoples by conquest regimes remains a pressing issue This book unlike most other books on the subject contrasts two different colonial administrations first the Chinese Qing Empire then from 1895 the Japanese It shows how under the Chinese legal system the Qing employed the Chinese legal system to manage the relationship between the increasing numbers of Han Chinese settlers and the indigenous peoples and how although the Qing regime refrained from taking actions to transform aboriginal land tenure nevertheless Chinese settlers were able to manipulate aboriginal land tenure to their advantage It goes on to examine the very different approach of the Japanese colonial administration which following the Meiji Restoration of 1868 had begun to adopt a Western legal framework demonstrating how this was intentionally much more intrusive and how the Japanese modernized legal framework significantly disrupted aboriginal land tenure. Based on extensive original research, the book provides important insights into colonisation, different legal traditions, and the impact of colonial settlement on indigenous peoples.

The Pre-Austronesian 'Liangdao Man' Chung-yu Chen, 2025-05-14. This book adopts a comprehensive approach drawing from archaeology, physical anthropology, human genetics, linguistics, cultural anthropology, ethnology, and ethnography to explore the Austronesian link of Liangdao Man and the origins of Austronesian language groups. Due to their dating 2,300–1,500 years earlier than Austronesian-speaking peoples, these two individuals should be Pre-Austronesian or Proto-Austroasiatic. The Matsu archipelago is situated off Fuzhou City's estuary in Fujian Province. In 2011–2012, the author unearthed two human skeletons, Liangdao Man 1 and Liangdao Man 2, aged 8,300 and 7,500 years respectively, on Liangdao Island. One of these islands' DNA analysis revealed that haplogroups E and R9 were identified, linking them to Austronesians of Taiwan aborigines' maternal lineage.

The Origins of the World's Mythologies E.J. Michael Witzel, 2012-12-13. This remarkable book is the most ambitious work on mythology since that of the renowned Mircea Eliade, who all but single-handedly invented the modern study of myth and religion. Focusing on the oldest available texts buttressed by data from archaeology, comparative linguistics, and human population genetics, Michael Witzel reconstructs a single original African source for our collective myths dating back some 100,000 years. Identifying features shared by this Out of Africa mythology and its northern Eurasian offshoots, Witzel suggests that these common myths recounted by the communities of the African Eve are the earliest evidence of ancient spirituality. Moreover, these common features, Witzel shows, survive today in all major religions. Witzel's book is an intellectual hand grenade that will doubtless generate considerable excitement and consternation in the scholarly community. Indeed, everyone interested in mythology will want to grapple with Witzel's extraordinary hypothesis about the spirituality of our common ancestors and to understand what it tells us about our modern cultures and the way they are linked at the deepest level.

Becoming Taiwan Ann Heylen, Scott Sommers, 2010. One of the most important aspects of democracy has been the transition from colonialism. In Taiwan, this discussion is typically framed in political discourse that focuses on theoretical issues. Becoming Taiwan departs from this well-traveled route to describe the cultural, historical, and social origins of Taiwan's thriving democracy. Contributors were specifically chosen to represent both Taiwanese and non-Taiwanese researchers as well as a diverse range of academic fields from Literature and Linguistics to History, Archeology, Sinology, and Sociology. The result represents a mixture of well-known scholars and young researchers from outside the English-speaking world. The volume addresses three main issues in Taiwan Studies and attempts answers based in the historical record: How Chinese is Taiwan? Organizing a Taiwanese Society and Speaking about Taiwan. Individual chapters are grouped around these three themes, illustrating the internal dynamics that transformed Taiwan into its current manifestation as a thriving multiethnic democracy Our approach addresses these themes pointing out how Taiwan Studies provides a multidisciplinary answer to problems of the transformation from colonialism to democracy Taipei Joseph R. Allen, 2011-11-11 Winner of the Joseph Levenson Post 1900 Book Prize This cultural study of public space examines the cityscape of Taipei Taiwan in rich descriptive prose Contemplating a series of seemingly banal subjects maps public art parks Joseph Allen peels back layers of obscured history to reveal forces that caused cultural objects to be celebrated despised destroyed or transformed as Taipei experienced successive regime changes and waves of displacement In this thoughtful stroll through the city we learn to look beyond surface ephemera moving from the general to the particular to see sociocultural phenomena in their historical and contemporary contexts Watch the book trailer <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xBdGIoox7zM> Indigenous Knowledge in Taiwan and Beyond Shu-mei Shih, Lin-chin Tsai, 2021-01-15 This book situates Taiwan's indigenous knowledge in comparative contexts across other indigenous knowledge formations The content is divided into four distinct but interrelated sections to highlight the importance and diversity of indigenous knowledge in Taiwan and beyond It begins with an exploration of the recent development and construction of an indigenous knowledge and educational system in Taiwan as well as issues concerning research ethics and indigenous knowledge This is followed by a section that illustrates diverse forms of indigenous knowledge and in turn a theoretical dialogue between indigenous studies and settler colonial studies Lastly the Paiwan indigenous author Dadelavan Ibau's trans indigenous journey to Tibet rounds out the coverage This book is useful to readers in indigenous settler colonial and decolonial studies around the world not just because it offers substantive content on indigenous knowledge in Taiwan but also because it offers conceptual tools for studying indigenous knowledge from comparative and relational perspectives It also greatly benefits anyone interested in Taiwan studies offering an ethical approach to indigeneity in a classic settler colony Museums and Communities Viv Golding, Wayne Modest, 2013-08-15 This edited volume critically engages with contemporary scholarship on museums and their engagement with the communities they purport to serve and represent Foregrounding new curatorial strategies it addresses a significant gap in the available literature exploring some of the complex issues arising from recent approaches to collaboration between museums and their communities The book unpacks taken for granted notions such as scholarship community participation and collaboration which can gloss over the complexity of identities and lead to tokenistic claims of inclusion by museums Over sixteen chapters well respected authors from the US Australia and Europe offer a timely critique to address what happens when museums put community minded principles into practice challenging readers to move beyond shallow notions of political correctness that ignore vital difference in this contested field Contributors address a wide range of key issues asking pertinent questions such as how museums negotiate the complexities of integrating collaboration when the target community is a living fluid changeable mass of people with their own agendas and agency When is engagement real as opposed to symbolic who benefits from and who drives initiatives What particular challenges and benefits do artist collaborations bring Recognising the multiple perspectives of community participants is one thing but how can museums incorporate this successfully into exhibition practice Students of museum and cultural studies practitioners and everyone who cares about museums around the world will find this volume essential reading
