Learning with the Brain in Mind Frank McNeil,2008-12-18 Excellent a wonderful readable summary of what the educational world really needs to know about neuroscience Sue Palmer Literacy consultant and author of Toxic Childhood During the past few decades we ve seen an explosion of information about the human brain Sorting through the research and determining which findings have applications in the classroom is a daunting prospect Fortunately Frank McNeil has undertaken this task doing an excellent job Clearly written immediately practical this is one of the best books I ve read in the field It belongs on every teacher s and administrator s desk Pat Wolfe Ed D Author of Brain Matters Translating Research to Classroom Practice and President of Mind Matters Inc Learning with the Brain in Mind offers a fresh approach to teaching exploring recent findings in neuroscience and combining them with learning in three crucial and interconnected ways Attention Emotions and Memory Attention is the foundation for intellectual development as part of an essential survival strategy Emotional relationships are the basis for brain growth and provide the foundations for acquiring cognitive and social skills Memory has important influences on the sense of self and therefore on learning The book provides evidence of the controversial impacts of diet television and mineral supplements on learning both at school and at home examples from three research studies offering insights into pupils attitudes to life and learning in school practical strategies that will help pupils to learn in more effective ways Promoting new thinking about learning and considering innovative strategies that arise from our understanding of how the brain works this book will help teachers parents and other educators enhance children s learning Frank McNeil was Director of the National School Improvement Network at the Institute of education and a former Headteacher Principal Inspector for an outer London LEA and an Ofsted Registered inspector Catholic School Journal ,1964 Transformative Learning Through Engagement Jane Fried,2023-07-03 Jane Fried s overarching message is that higher education is based on a profoundly outdated industrial model of the purpose and delivery of learning and needs urgently to be changed Student affairs professionals and academic faculty have become frustrated with the alienation of so many students from academic learning because they cannot see its connection to their lives This book addressed to everyone involved in helping college students learn presents what we now know about the learning process particularly those elements that promote behavioral change and the ability to place information in a broader context of personal meaning and long term impact Central to its argument is that learning must be experiential and engage students holistically that it must be grounded in brain science and an understanding of the cultural drivers of knowledge construction that academic faculty and student affairs professionals must cooperate to help students make connections and see the implications of their learning for their lives and that the entire learning environment needs to be integrated to reflect the organic nature of the process A second purpose of this book is to enable student affairs professionals to articulate their own role in helping students learn Student affairs as a profession has had difficulty describing its work with students as teaching because the dominant paradigm of teaching continues to suggest a classroom an academic expert and a model of learning that is basically verbal and cognitive Student affairs professionals who read this book will be able to understand and articulate the processes of experiential transformative education to their academic colleagues and to help collegially design integrated learning experiences as partners with academic faculty The book concludes with a number of brief invited chapters that describe a few emerging models and programs that illustrate Jane Fried s vision of transformative learning experiences that integrate experience study and reflection This book was written with contributions from Craig AlimoJulie Beth ElkinsScott HazanElsa M N ez Vernon PercyChristopher PudlinskiSarah Stookey

The Voynich Manuscript as an Example of Oligo-Agglutinative Pasigraphy, Vol. I: A Fuzzy Set Approach to Decryption Steve Bolton, Class III problems are considered practically unsolvable in cryptology but none has resisted cryptanalytic attack as persistently as the Voynich Manuscript In the first installment of this 4 volume set we present the linguistic and affix analysis that preceded the first complete but approximate translation of the entire manuscript This contrasts with the piecemeal approach of all prior solutions that resulted in wildly divergent translations of minuscule selections of the text This systemic attack on the entirety of the text and its unusual distributional features such as extreme platykurtia which forbid translation into any natural language resulted first in superior transcription stability and an equally stable symbol set based on intensive statistical analysis The encoding scheme employs a 20 22 letter alphabetic script that most closely resembles a slot and filler top down a priori pasigraphic system with oligo agglutinative features that are currently only considered a theoretical possibility in the linguistics field The intricate affixing system is based mainly on precise placement of single letters to denote case roles semantic classes and 3 primary parts of speech exhibiting a strong noun surfeit At the phrase level we find dominant SOV order and head final dependent marked grammar compatible with heavily formatted inline pharmaceutical lists these result in short ranges of actionable information which no competing solution can claim Plant descriptions are demoted in comparison to other herbals in favor of processing and dispensing details This approximate solution is based on fuzzy set analysis techniques integrated with linguistic universals a wide range of common statistics Pareto and Sukhotin scores Zipf slopes Indexes of Coincidence Agglutination and Synthesis and dozens of others and many home brewed fuzzy algorithms implemented in T SQL and VB Net after the inadequacy of many advanced data mining techniques was demonstrated Our methodology was validated when the project reached an inflection point beyond which we were able to predict the identities and properties of plants based on the text alone The project ended with plausible identification candidates for 121 of 126 herbal section plants and 7 others elsewhere in the manuscript far beyond that of other published solutions An incredible 100% of the 133 identified plants have dermatological uses These can be divided into prominent subtopics like treatment of bites anthelmintics rheumatism and other musculo skeletal ailments inflammatory skin disorders external and possibly menstrual bleeding excision of blemishes application of cosmetics and cures dispensable in baths The centerpiece of the manuscript is the Rosette Folio which depicts the grand design of a medieval bathhouse keyed to specific astrological timings also defined by satellite diagrams following a precedence hierarchy Each of these uses exhibit telltale polygraph correlations that fall into a handful of semantic hierarchies constructed from highly similar bases such as skin color based diagnostic criteria remedies solutions problems diseases plant parts and the like These findings require 2 volumes to demonstrate and another volume of data and other supplementary material Despite this complexity they culminate in a drastic simplification of the script and the first ever comprehensive translation of the Voynich Manuscript in Volume IV albeit at low resolution
