Enzymes are the basis of everything. They are the basis for everything that happens. You should know how everything that happens is dependent on enzymes. If you want to be a biochemist, thinking about everything that happens that must involve an enzyme is a good idea. Enzymes are used to break the chemical bonds that hold together molecules. In fact, you can think of everything you see as being broken down by enzymes. So, biology is the study of the breakdown of chemical bonds. Enzymes are the key to everything that happens. So, biology is the study of the breakdown of chemical bonds. Enzymes are the key to everything that happens. So, biology is the study of the breakdown of chemical bonds.
