

Biographical Narrative Outline & Examples

Intro

- Begin with a descriptive image of your person (appearance, a defining action or dialogue, etc.). This will help you with your controlling impression and full circle ending!
 - Example: Pa-Paw was a giant to me with a deep baritone voice and a square, intimidating jaw. He had a hard-nosed look and a rough exterior.
- Provide any necessary background information
 - Example: He grew up with little love and he did not want his brothers and sisters to grow up the same way.
- Hint at the controlling impression
 - Example: But it is his wisdom I would one day learn from and absorb in. One day, he would teach me the ways of an ant and possibly nourish my curiosity.

Body P

- Give one anecdote (story) for each body paragraph with specific details. Paint a picture (image) of your "character" (the person you are writing about)! Consider including dialogue, actions, gestures, description, etc.). Use SMTs: details for effect, expanded moment, figurative language, etc.
 - Example: My first memory of my sister's guidance was in my first year of elementary school. It was a warm, sunny day, but I was stiff with anticipation, not knowing how to prepare myself for the day ahead of me. She was cool and calm, her hair bouncing off her back as she skipped along in confidence. She was only two years older, but she held my hand the way my mother would have, and as she pulled me along, I fell into step with her bubbly bounce. She looked at me periodically to "check in" – not with words, but with a reassuring smile. I had worried so much about being away from my mother, about whether or not I could fend for myself in a busy sea of chattering children...but now, I began to smile, too. As we entered the school, people looked at my sister and me, cheerily smiling as if we knew exactly what the day would bring... and I did. I knew, by the way she held my hand and looked at me, she was watching out for me. I knew that she would not be far away. I knew that she would be there to greet me after school, as any guardian would be.
- Reflect on your thoughts and feelings in your concluding sentence (the last sentence of each body paragraph) and hint again at the controlling impression. What did you learn? How did you feel or think differently after the experience?
 - Example: He laid out a plan to let me acknowledge it all by myself. Now that I look back, I smile with thankfulness and glee when I think of all he taught me with his gentle guidance.
- Make sure you order your anecdotes in a logical way!

Conclusion

- Come full circle (SMT)! Revisit the image from your intro paragraph and tie it into the final comment on your controlling impression.
 - Example: Pa-Paw stood back up, turned, and gave me that hard-nosed look I was so familiar with, but there was something else in that look as well.
- Directly state your controlling impression. What do you want your readers to know or feel about the person you are writing about?
 - Example: My grandfather taught me all he could about life, not only through his words, but also his actions. He taught me about the world beyond the little city where I lived. He brought me with him to travel through his stories. He showed me that I can do anything if I try: I could stop the roll of time. I appreciate so much now how much he implanted in me. Through observing his actions and confidence in life, I learned the way ants are. Just like my grandfather, ants are those hardy little creatures; tough and knowledgeable...but grandpa is better to hug!

Note: Use the sample essay on page 125 of your textbook to help you with the format. This essay is missing a full circle ending, though, so make sure you add one to yours!

Biographical Research Ana Caetano, Magda Nico, 2022-03-30 Studying people s lives requires acknowledging the multiple entanglements between individual singularity and processes of social patterning This book testifies how challenging and creative the study of these connections can be It gathers international contributions that show in imaginative ways how a person s life or specific domains of existence can be observed tackled and analysed across time This volume reveals the potential of biographical research in the production of social theory in the development of methodological innovation in giving voice and protagonism to people and in the understanding of the social unfolding of their lives It is a testimony of a vibrant and youthful field with a long tradition in social sciences and with numerous connections with other study areas namely the life course approach The different chapters illustrate how the challenges posed by this type of research focused on the individual level of analysis are particular and what creative responses are required to continue analysing the link between biography and society The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Contemporary Social Science

Essays in Biography Carl Rollyson, 2005 Essays in Biography is a play on words conveying Carl Rollyson s attempt to explore the nature of biography in pieces about the history of the genre and in portrayals of biographers Plutarch Leon Edel and W A Swanberg literary figures Lillian Hellman Jack London philosophers and critics Leo Strauss and Hippolyte Taine political figures Winston Churchill and Napoleon and artists Rembrandt and Rubens An essay in biography Rollyson argues is an effort to comprehend a life that is inherently incomplete and subject to revision Many of the facts about a biographical subject s life that are blandly presented in reference books have been discovered by biographers at great cost to their reputations With the history of biography as a censored genre in mind he encourages readers of biography to look critically at the biographies they read no matter whether those biographies are book length narratives or short encyclopedia entries Many of the pairings in Essays in Biography are meant to evoke Plutarch's presentation of parallel lives The biographical essay Rollyson concludes is a unique form of knowledge one that modern critics have devalued by trying to separate the creator from his creation
