Buying Time For Heritage How To Save An Endangered Historic Property:

Buying Time for Heritage J. Myrick Howard, 2023-10-03 What does it take to save endangered historic properties This practical guide builds on decades of historic preservation experience to provide readers with legal financial political and technical tools and strategies to be more effective preservationists Myrick Howard makes clear that large sums of money are not necessarily needed to save endangered historic properties but knowledge and passion are essential This book shows how preservation minded neighbors and organizations can succeed with only modest resources and rather than clash with developers can become developers themselves for community benefit Howard draws on case studies from forty five years of successful work leading Preservation North Carolina with lessons that are applicable coast to coast This richly illustrated fully revised and redesigned second edition includes detailed projects to renovate vacant houses in working class neighborhoods reflections on addressing racial equity through preservation an expanded section on using preservation easements and summaries of revolving fund programs around the country Buying Time for Heritage is an indispensable resource for those looking to save the special places of our collective past

Sustainable Heritage Amalia Leifeste, Barry L. Stiefel, 2018-06-14 This book brings together ecological conservation theory and heritage preservation theory and shows how these two realms have common purpose Through theoretical discussion and illustrative examples Sustainable Heritage reframes the history of multiple movements within preservation and sustainable design strategies into cross disciplinary themes Through topics such as Cultural Relationships with Nature Ecology Biodiversity Energy and Resource Systems Integrating Biodiversity into the Built Environment Rehabilitation Practice Fixing the Shortcomings Within Community Design Planning and Policy Strategies for Adapting Buildings and Structures for Rising Sea Levels and Vehicles as a Microcosm of Approaching Built Environment Rehabilitation the book explores contemporary ecological and heritage ethics as a strategy for improving the livability of the built environment The authors provide a holistic critique of the challenges we face in light of climate and cultural changes occurring from the local to the global level It synthesizes the best practices offered by separate disciplines as one cohesive way forward toward sustainable design The authors consider strategies for increasing the physical and cultural longevity of the built environment why these two are so closely paired and the potential their overlap offers for sustained and meaningful inhabitation Sustainable Heritage unites students and professionals in a wide range of disciplines with one common language and more closely aligned sets of objectives for preservation and sustainable design

A Field Guide to American Houses (Revised) Virginia Savage McAlester, 2015-11-10 The fully expanded updated and freshly designed second edition of the most comprehensive and widely acclaimed guide to domestic architecture in print since its original publication in 1984 and acknowledged everywhere as the unmatched essential guide to American houses This revised edition includes a section on neighborhoods expanded and completely new categories of house styles with photos and descriptions of each an appendix on Approaches to Construction in the 20th and 21st Centuries an expanded bibliography and 600 new photographs and line drawings New Solutions for House Museums Donna Ann Harris, 2020-11-17 This substantially enlarged and expanded second edition of New Solutions for House Museums Ensuring the Long Term Preservation of America's Historic Houses provides advice for historic site stewards that have concerns about the financial sustainability of their historic house museum and its relevance to its local audience Seven new case studies have been added for the second edition The new case studies reinforce the book's central argument that not every historic house museum whether founded 100 years ago or last month can be sustained long term Three of the new case studies are from diverse historic sites showcasing how African American women and other minority focused historic sites are pioneering new ways to commemorate their histories and interpret fascinating stories to visitors with the end goal of creating financially sustainable historic sites that are relevant to their audience New interviews have been conducted with the ten existing case studies from the first edition to bring them up to date The new edition adds two new reuse options to the eight introduced in the first edition This chapter describes how to identify and implement a reuse decision costs and advisors needed and tips on decision making There is a new chapter long interview with Tom Mayes Chief Legal Officer and General Counsel for the National Trust for Historic Preservation on recent legal and ethical issues facing historic sites Another new chapter provides advice on the essential role of the historic site's Board of Directors as the decision maker for any reuse exploration The second edition of New Solutions for House Museums contains a new introduction to the second edition an updated conclusion bibliography and index Managing the Magic of Old Places Jeremy Wells, 2025-10-14 From 1849 to the early 1980s the development of US historic preservation policy was shaped by fewer than one hundred elite White men from Europe and America This orthodox preservation doctrine has too long silenced the vibrant experiential relationships between everyday people and their heritage Managing the Magic of Old Places Crafting Public Policies for People Centered Historic Preservation offers a radical rethinking of how historic preservation is approached in the United States Author Jeremy C Wells argues for a revolutionary shift in federal preservation policy one that embraces community based participatory practice and draws from environmental psychology to tap into the intangible emotional connections people have with old places Wells highlights the experiential values that laypeople often ascribe to historic environments which are frequently dismissed by expert driven policies He contends that if historic preservation policy continues to ignore these aspects the field will lose relevance as the gap between professionals and the public widens Drawing from interdisciplinary research in the social sciences particularly phenomenology and environmental psychology Wells's vision of public preservation policy centers the lived experiences of communities reinvigorating the field and ensuring that the preservation of historic places resonates with a wider more inclusive audience Wells positions his work within the growing field of critical heritage studies yet his focus on the psychological and emotional aspects of preservation distinguishes it as a unique contribution By placing the needs and experiences of the public at the heart of preservation efforts Wells critiques the historical foundations of US

preservation policy while offering a bold agenda for reform

Green Restorations Aaron Lubeck, 2010-01-01 Some 40 percent of North Americans live in homes built prior to 1940 and when it comes time to remodel or restore our older homes homeowners and contractors can find themselves lost in a morass of wildly divergent information and opinion With Green Restorations author Aaron Lubeck brings his expertise as a restoration contractor and preservation consultant to this first of its kind guide leading the reader through the steps for restoring historic building using sustainable practices and green building techniques In a readily accessible room by room and system by system format Green Restorations covers rehabilitation and remodelling questions applicable to old homes focusing on the core techniques and debates often seen in practice Here you ll find the answers to restoration questions such as Is sealing my old crawl space a good idea Should I replace or rehabilitate my windows Are there historic aspects of my home I need to preserve and what can I change What are the cultural environmental and financial implications of my proposed changes Do residential historic tax credits apply to my home and how can I access them Written in such a way as to be accessible for homeowners but technical enough for contractors this book will appeal to anyone trying to green an older home while preserving its historic and cultural significance

Southern Splendor Marc R. Matrana, Robin S. Lattimore, Michael W. Kitchens, 2018-03-22 Few things evoke thoughts and memories of the past more than a house from a bygone era and few places are identified and symbolized more by historic dwellings than the American South Plantation houses built with columned porticos and wide porches stout chimneys large rooms and sweeping staircases survive as legacies of both a storied and troubled past These homes are at the heart of a complex web of human relationships that have shaped the social and cultural heritage of the region for generations Despite their commanding appearance the region s plantation houses have proven to be fragile relics of history vulnerable to decay neglect and loss Today only a small percentage of the South s antebellum treasures survive In Southern Splendor Saving Architectural Treasures of the Old South historians Marc R Matrana Robin S Lattimore and Michael W Kitchens explore almost fifty houses built before the Civil War that have been authentically restored or preserved Methodically examined are restoration efforts that preserve not only homes and other structures but also the stories of those living in or occupying those homes The authors discuss the challenges facing specific plantation homes and their preservation Featuring over 275 stunning photographs as well as dozens of firsthand accounts and interviews with those involved in the preservation of these historic properties Southern Splendor describes the leading role the South has played since the nineteenth century in the historic preservation movement in this country

SynergiCity Paul Hardin Kapp, Paul J. Armstrong, 2012-09-30 SynergiCity Reinventing the Postindustrial City proposes a new and invigorating vision of urbanism architectural design and urban revitalization in twenty first century America Culling transformative ideas from the realms of historic preservation sustainability ecological urbanism and the innovation economy Paul Hardin Kapp and Paul J Armstrong present a holistic vision for restoring industrial cities suffering from population decline back into stimulating and productive places to live and work With a particular emphasis on the Rust Belt of the American Midwest SynergiCity argues that cities such as Detroit St Louis and Peoria must redefine themselves to be globally competitive This revitalization is possible through environmentally and economically sustainable restoration of industrial areas and warehouse districts for commercial research light industrial and residential uses The volume s expert researchers urban planners and architects draw on the redevelopment successes of other major cities such as the American Tobacco District in Durham North Carolina and the Milwaukee River Greenway to set guidelines and goals for reinventing and revitalizing the postindustrial landscape Contributors are Paul J Armstrong Donald K Carter Lynne M Dearborn Norman W Garrick Mark Gillem Robert Greenstreet Craig Harlan Hullinger Paul Hardin Kapp Ray Lees Emil Malizia John O Norquist Christine Scott Thomson and James Wasley The North Carolina Historical Review ,2010

The Past and Future City Stephanie Meeks, Kevin C. Murphy, 2016-10-04 At its most basic historic preservation is about keeping old places alive in active use and relevant to the needs of communities today As cities across America experience a remarkable renaissance and more and more young diverse families choose to live work and play in historic neighborhoods the promise and potential of using our older and historic buildings to revitalize our cities is stronger than ever This urban resurgence is a national phenomenon boosting cities from Cleveland to Buffalo and Portland to Pittsburgh Experts offer a range of theories on what is driving the return to the city from the impact of the recent housing crisis to a desire to be socially engaged live near work and reduce automobile use But there s also more to it Time and again when asked why they moved to the city people talk about the desire to live somewhere distinctive to be some place rather than no place Often these distinguishing urban landmarks are exciting neighborhoods Miami boasts its Art Deco district New Orleans the French Quarter Sometimes as in the case of Baltimore s historic rowhouses the most distinguishing feature is the urban fabric itself While many aspects of this urban resurgence are a cause for celebration the changes have also brought to the forefront issues of access affordable housing inequality sustainability and how we should commemorate difficult history This book speaks directly to all of these issues In The Past and Future City Stephanie Meeks the president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation describes in detail and with unique empirical research the many ways that saving and restoring historic fabric can help a city create thriving neighborhoods good jobs and a vibrant economy She explains the critical importance of preservation for all our communities the ways the historic preservation field has evolved to embrace the challenges of the twenty first century and the innovative work being done in the preservation space now This book is for anyone who cares about cities places and saving America s diverse stories in a way that will bring us together and help us better understand our past present and future
