Barking Up Wrong Tree Protection:

Peter Scriber on Protection Peter SCRIBER (pseud. [i.e. Charles Augustus Davis.]), Charles Augustus DAVIS, 1844

Where Our Protection Lies Dimitrios Kyritsis, 2017-07-21 In this book Dimitrios Kyritsis advances an original account of constitutional review of primary legislation for its compatibility with human rights Key to it is the value of separation of powers When the relationship between courts and the legislature realizes this value it makes a stronger claim to moral legitimacy Kyritsis steers a path between the two extremes of the sceptics and the enthusiasts Against sceptics who claim that constitutional review is an affront to democracy he argues that it is a morally legitimate institutional option for democratic societies because it can provide an effective check on the legislature Although the latter represents the people and should thus be given the initiative in designing government policy it carries serious risks which institutional design must seek to avert Against enthusiasts he maintains that fundamental rights protection is not the exclusive province of courts but the responsibility of both the judiciary and the legislature Although courts may sometimes be given the power to scrutinize legislation and even strike it down if it violates human rights they must also respect the legislature's important contribution to their joint project Occasionally they may even have a duty to defer to morally sub optimal decisions as far as rights protection is concerned This is as it should be Legitimacy demands less than the ideal In turn citizens ought to accept discounts on perfect justice for the sake of achieving a reasonably just and effective political order overall Protecting

Jenna Zoe Dawson, 2025-06-29 Who wants her dead Special Agent Austin Beck out of the San Diego California NCIS Office is sent to speak to an events coordinator who witnessed the murder of her sister who was a Blue Angels pilot Her sister was just assigned to the all male team and was scheduled to fly with them the next day Austin is shocked to find out the witness is Jenna Webb The last time he saw her he was a marine guard for the U S Embassy in Kuwait where there was a hostile takeover Only she'd been married and he'd been engaged They had spent three harrowing days together and he'd almost lost his life protecting her Now she's the target of a killer and Austin is assigned to protect her once again He struggles to remain neutral at least as long as the case is active professionally he's duty bound to her safety and had to be his number one priority but privately he wonders if what they felt was heightened by the very real threat of death nothing but a consequence of their harrowing experience Jenna Webb never thought she'd see Austin again During those three days they were together there was a strong attraction that she fought Once she got home with her diplomat husband who is ten years her senior their relationship wasn't the same She felt guilty over the fact that she couldn't forget Austin and ached for what could have been if only they'd been free Now after meeting him again Jenna fears exploring their attraction unwilling to confess her feelings and risking that not only didn't he feel the same way but that what she experienced was more about the traumatic events than it was about a genuine and promising connection The Protection of Ground and Surface Waters, January
