Unit 1:1 Neuroanatomy & Neural Transmission

Name: _____

Class: _____

Date: _____

Overview

- Neuroanatomy: The study of the structure and function of the nervous system.
- Neurotransmission: The study of the chemical messengers that carry signals from one neuron to the next.

Structure of a Neuron

| Part                     | Function                                                                               |
|--------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Dendrites         | Receive signals from other neurons and pass them to the cell body.                     |
| Cell Body (Soma)  | Contains the nucleus and organelles; the control center of the neuron.                 |
| Axon              | Carries signals away from the cell body to other neurons or muscles.                   |
| Axon Hillock      | The point where the axon joins the cell body; the site of action potential initiation. |
| Myelin Sheath     | Insulates the axon to speed up signal transmission.                                    |
| Neurotransmitters | Chemical messengers that carry signals across the synapse.                             |
| Synapse           | The gap between two neurons where signals are passed.                                  |

Key Principles

- All-or-None Principle: A neuron either fires or it doesn't.
- Integration: The process of combining signals from different sources to decide whether to fire.
- Neurochemical Process: The process of creating and releasing neurotransmitters.
- Electrical Process: The process of generating and conducting electrical signals (action potentials) along the axon.

How a Neuron Fires

- Resting Potential:
  - Neuron has a negative charge (-70mV).
  - Sodium channels are closed, potassium channels are open.
- Stimulus:
  - When a stimulus arrives at the dendrites, it causes a small change in the charge.
- Threshold:
  - If the change is large enough, it causes a full action potential.
- Action Potential:
  - Sodium channels open, sodium ions enter.
  - Potassium channels open, potassium ions exit.
  - The signal travels down the axon.
- Neurotransmitter Release:
  - When the signal reaches the end of the axon, it causes the release of neurotransmitters into the synapse.
- Recovery:
  - Potassium channels close, sodium channels close.

Neurotransmission

| Neurotransmitter | Function           | Location         | Effect                |
|------------------|--------------------|------------------|-----------------------|
| Acetylcholine    | Muscle contraction | Muscle junctions | Excitatory            |
| Dopamine         | Movement, emotion  | Brain            | Excitatory/Inhibitory |
| Glutamate        | Learning, memory   | Brain            | Excitatory            |
| GABA             | Anxiety, stress    | Brain            | Inhibitory            |
| Norepinephrine   | Alertness, focus   | Brain            | Excitatory            |
| Serotonin        | Mood, appetite     | Brain            | Excitatory/Inhibitory |
| Histamine        | Alertness, focus   | Brain            | Excitatory            |
