

BGP Interview Questions and Answers

Ques 1. Can router in different subnet become bgp neighbor?

Yes, BGP neighborship can be formed between Routers across different subnets. Unlike TCP protocols, BGP requires TCP connection across Routers which may be on same subnet or different subnets.

Ques 2. Which layer does BGP work on?

BGP is an application layer protocol and works upon Layer 7 of OSI model.

Ques 3. What is the difference between eBGP multihop and ttl security?

Below is the difference between eBGP Multihop and TTL Security:-

| Parameter      | eBGP Multihop                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | BGP TTL Security                                                                                                                                                |
| Philosophy     | Establishing Router-to-router link there is security related BGP peering with existing multihop neighbor. eBGP peering has a default TTL value of 1 hop. If packet is received in more than 1 hop, neighborship formation will be considered successful. If received TTL is less than 1, it is likely that the router is on same subnet. Hence in order to receive the TTL value of the 0 packet to eBGP routers. | TTL security addresses an eBGP neighbor's security. With TTL=0, it is security related multihop configuration security in the TCP connection between BGP peers. |
| Range          | eBGP multihop sets the hopcount range so it is more than the default.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | TTL security secures router-to-router hops.                                                                                                                     |
| Direction      | Unidirectional configuration.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | TTL security is bidirectional configuration.                                                                                                                    |
| Requirement    | Requires to establish eBGP peering with multihop neighbors. Not recommended.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Security feature to prevent BGP peering between routers on the same subnet. It is required between the BGP peers.                                               |
| Command Syntax | neighbor <ip address> multihop <value>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | neighbor <ip address> ttl-security <value>                                                                                                                      |

Ques 4. Which protocol and port number does BGP use for neighborship?

BGP uses TCP protocol and port number 179 for forming neighborship.

Ques 5. How do I configure BGP?

The basic configuration of BGP requires below commands:-

- router bgp <asn>
- neighbor <ip address> remote-as <remote-as-number>

Below is example configuration:-

R1(config)#router bgp 100
R1(config)#neighbor 2.2.2.2 remote-as 200
R1(config)#router bgp 200
R1(config)#neighbor 1.1.1.1 remote-as 100

Ques 6. What is the use of "BGP best-path as-path ignore" command?

As a default behavior of BGP path selection, BGP prefers the path with the shortest AS_PATH. This step is skipped if we have configured the Cisco "BGP best-path as-path ignore" command.

Ques 7. How do I configure BGP with the use of a loopback address?

Below is the configuration to configure BGP with the use of a loopback address:-

R1 Configuration:-

```

Interface Loopback0
ip address 1.1.1.1 255.255.255.255

Interface FastEthernet0/0
ip address 2.2.2.2 255.255.255.0

Router bgp 100
neighbor 2.2.2.2 remote-as 200 neighbor 2.2.2.2 update-source loopback0 <===== this command specifies that the TCP connection with BGP peer should be established using loopback interface.

ip route 1.1.1.1 255.255.255.255 20.20.20.20 <===== Static Route for reachability to remote
BGP peer

End

R2 configuration:-

```

Interface Loopback0
ip address 2.2.2.2 255.255.255.255
