Bed Roses W L George:

A Bed of Roses W. L. George, Walter Lionel George, 1911 We go The lascar meditatively pressed his face brown and begrimed with coal dust streaked here and there with sweat against the rope which formed the rough bulwark His dark eyes were fixed on the shore near by between which and the ship's side the water quivered quicker and quicker in little ripples each ripple carrying an iridescent film of grey ooze Without joy or sadness he was bidding goodbye to Bombay his city Those goodbyes are often farewells for lascars who must face the Bay and the Channel But the stoker did not care His companion lay by his side lazily propped up on his elbow not deigning even to take a last look at the market place seething still with its crowded reds and blues and golds Dekko cried the first stoker pointing to the wharf where a white man in a dirty smock had just cast off the last rope which came away swishing through the air W. L. George - A Bed of Roses: 'The Attraction was All in the Eyes, Large and Grey, Suggestive of Energy Without Emotion' Walter Lionel George, 2019-09-16 Walter Lionel George was born to British parents on 20th March 1882 in Paris France It was not until he was a young man of 20 that he learned English In 1905 he moved to London to work in an office but soon found himself working as a journalist as a foreign correspondent for various London newspapers By 1911 with the publication of his first novel A Bed of Roses which portrayed the fall of a penniless young woman into prostitution his efforts were rewarded and he turned to literature as a full time career His writings now sold well He added short stories to his offerings as well as literary essays and several tracts that discussed left wing themes Others thought his subject matter to be difficult and poorly chosen and his political views gained him little credit amongst his peers although such luminaries as George Orwell praised both subject matter and style His personal life was also turbulent His three marriages left him widowed twice In 1908 he married Helen Porter who died in 1914 Helen Agnes Moorhead followed in 1916 but she died in 1920 His last marriage was to Kathleen Geipel in 1921 W L George died on 30th January 1926 A Bed of Roses W. L. George, 2016-03-29 A Bed of Roses By W L George The Fortnightly, 1926 British Books in Print, 1924 The Bookseller, 1913 Official organ of the book trade of the United Kingdom Vanity Fair, 1921 Bookseller and the Stationery Trades' Journal, 1911 Katherine Mansfield and the Bloomsbury Group Todd Martin, 2017-06-01 The New Zealand born writer Katherine Mansfield associated intimately with many members of the Bloomsbury group but her literary aesthetics placed her at a distance from the artistic works of the group With chapters written by leading international scholars Katherine Mansfield and the Bloomsbury Group explores this conflicted relationship Bringing together biographical and critical studies the book examines Mansfield's relationships personal and literary with such major Modernist figures as Virginia Woolf T S Eliot Aldous Huxley and Walter de la Mare as well as the ways in which her work engaged with and reacted against Bloomsbury In this way the book reveals the true extent of Mansfield's wider influence on 20th century modernist writing Dramatic Actualities W. L. George, 1914
