Self-Therapy Jonathan Dil, 2022-02-24 Haruki Murakami a global literary phenomenon has said that he started writing fiction as a means of self therapy What he has not discussed as much is what he needed self therapy for This book argues that by understanding more about why Murakami writes and by linking this with the question of how he writes readers can better understand what he writes Murakami's fiction in other words can be read as a search for self therapy In five chapters which explore Murakami's fourteen novels to date this book argues that there are four prominent therapeutic threads woven through Murakami's fiction that can be traced back to his personal traumas most notably Murakami's falling out with his late father and the death of a former girlfriend and which have also transcended them in significant ways as they have been transformed into literary fiction The first thread looks at the way melancholia must be worked through for mourning to occur and healing to happen the second thread looks at how symbolic acts of sacrifice can help to heal intergenerational trauma the third thread looks at the way people with avoidant attachment styles can begin to open themselves up to love again the fourth thread looks at how individuation can manifest as a response to nihilism Meticulously researched and written with sensitivity the result is a sophisticated exploration of Murakami's published novels as an evolving therapeutic project that will be of great value to all scholars of Japanese literature and culture Like You'd Understand, Anyway Jim

Shepard, 2008-08-12 Following his widely acclaimed Project X and Love and Hydrogen Here is the effect of these two books wrote the Chicago Tribune A reader finishes them buzzing with awe Jim Shepard now gives us his first entirely new collection in more than a decade Like You'd Understand Anyway reaches from Chernobyl to Bridgeport with a host of narrators only Shepard could bring to pitch perfect life Among them a middle aged Aeschylus taking his place at Marathon still vying for parental approval A maddeningly indefatigable Victorian explorer hauling his expedition whaleboat and all through the Great Australian Desert in midsummer The first woman in space and her cosmonaut lover caught in the star crossed orbits of their joint mission Two Texas high school football players at the top of their food chain soliciting their fathers attention by leveling everything before them on the field And the rational and compassionate chief executioner of Paris whose occupation during the height of the Terror eats away at all he holds dear Brimming with irony compassion and withering humor these eleven stories are at once eerily pertinent and dazzlingly exotic and they showcase the work of a protean prodigiously gifted writer at the height of his form Reading Jim Shepard according to Michael Chabon is like encountering our national literature in microcosm A Companion to the American Short Story Alfred Bendixen, James
