cycle of elections government formations and the need for governments to survive in potentially hostile environments These conditions require members of any government to make decisions on a large number of issues some of which sharply divide them Officials resolve these divisions by logrolling conceding on issues they care less about in exchange for reciprocal concessions on issues to which they attach more importance Though realistically modeling this governance cycle is beyond the scope of traditional formal analysis this book attacks the problem computationally in two ways Firstly it models the behavior of functionally rational senior politicians who use informal decision heuristics to navigate their complex high stakes setting Secondly by applying computational methods to traditional game theory it uses artificial intelligence to model how hyper rational politicians might find strategies that are close to optimal
