

1. A teacher working with limited-English-proficient students uses charts, maps, photographs, overlays, and manipulatives extensively with her students.  - d. All the above.
4. Language acquisition theory postulates that:
 - a. The acquisition of language is unconscious and comes about through use, whereas language learning is formal and based upon instruction.
 - b. From infancy, the passionate desire to communicate is the single most important force in language acquisition.
 - c. A language is learned at an "as needed" pace; a young child builds vocabulary and syntactical complexity as her needs grow and change.
 - d. The human mind contains a kind of metalinguistic grid at birth; language acquisition is the process of accepting those syntactical and sound elements that are used in a particular language and repressing elements that are not.

Once they are together again, they hear an announcement on the loudspeaker that their father is waiting at the front of the store. At that moment, a woman notices that both girls are crying. When she discovers they are lost, she walks with them to the front of the store, a distance of 375 feet, where their father rushes in relief to meet them .

What research-based strategies can the teacher employ to support this student's special needs?
 - a. Create a learning environment that is serious and dedicated; point out errors in English throughout the day; provide a translator to help with his class work.
 - b. Create a learning environment that is fun and spontaneous; avoid presenting an overly-serious or strict persona; allow the student to take frequent "time outs" when he feels overwhelmed; lower expectations to meet the student's abilities.
 - c. Put consistent classroom routines in place and do not vary them; create a learning environment that reflects joy and discipline in learning; create clearly defined learning expectations and goals; allow the student to work in groups with a variety of other students; permit this student to take ownership of some of his lessons.
