Difference , A Jesuit Garden in Beijing and Early Modern Chinese Culture Hui Zou, 2011-02-01 In this volume Hui Zou analyzes historical architectural visual literary and philosophical perspectives on the Western styled garden that formed part of the great Yuanming Yuan complex in Beijing constructed during the Qing dynasty. Designed and built in the late eighteenth century by Italian and French Jesuits, the garden described in this book was a wonderland of multi-storied buildings, fountains, labyrinths, and geometrical hills. It even included an open air theater. Through detailed examination of historical literature and representations, Zou analyzes the ways in which the Jesuits accommodated their design within the Chinese cultural context. He shows how an especially important element of their approach was the application of a linear perspective, the line method, to create the jing, the Chinese concept of the bounded bright view of a garden scene. Hui Zou's book demonstrates how Jesuit metaphysics fused with Chinese cosmology and broadens our understanding of cultural and religious encounters in early Chinese modernity. It presents an intriguing reflection on the interaction between Western metaphysics and the poetical tradition of Chinese culture. The volume will be of interest to scholars and students in a variety of fields including literature, philosophy, architecture, landscape, and urban studies, and East-West comparative cultural studies.

The sections cover the circulation and reception of China in world literature, as well as the worlds of Chinese literature across the globe, borders, oceans, and rainforests. Comparative literary genres, Translingual writers and scholars, Gender configurations, Translation and transmediation. With a focus on the twentieth and twenty-first century, this collection intervenes in current debates on global Chinese literature, Sinophone and Sinoscript studies, and the production and reception of literary works by ethnic Chinese in non-Sinitic languages, as well as Anglophone literature inspired by Chinese.
