Active Learning and Student Engagement Mick Healey, Eric Pawson, Michael Solem, 2013-09-13 This book examines significant issues in geography teaching and learning from the perspectives of an international network of academic geographers and postgraduate students. Drawing on classroom experiences and research in a wide variety of educational settings, the authors describe conceptually interesting and practical applications for enhancing student learning through inquiry, problem-based learning, field study, online collaboration, and other highly engaging forms of pedagogy. Other articles focus on approaches for improving the experiences of distance learners, strategies for enhancing the employability of geography students, and preparing students to engage with ethical issues in the discipline. An international audience of educators will find much of value through the use of comparative examples, literature reviews encompassing research in multiple national contexts, and an underlying awareness of the diversity of practices in higher education internationally. This book is a collection of articles previously published in two special issues of the Journal of Geography in Higher Education.

shallow and deep structures raises a fundamental question how big data is big enough to effectively tackle future epidemics In this context active learning often referred to as human or expert in the loop learning becomes imperative enabling machines to commence learning from day one with minimal labeled data In unsupervised learning the focus shifts toward constructing advanced machine learning models like deep structured networks that autonomously learn over time with human or expert intervention only when errors occur and for limited data a process we term mentoring In the context of Covid 19 this book explores the use of deep features to classify data into two clusters 0 1 Covid 19 non Covid 19 across three distinct datasets cough sound Computed Tomography CT scan and chest x ray CXR Not to be confused our primary objective is to provide a strong assertion on how active learning could potentially be used to predict disease from any upcoming epidemics Upon request education training purpose GitHub source codes are provided 200+ Active Learning
