Algerians Without Borders The Making Of A Global Frontier Society:

Algerians Without Borders Allan Christelow, 2012 This account of Algeria through its migratory history begins in the last quarter of the eighteenth century by looking at forced migration through the slave trade It moves through the colonial era and continues into Algeria's turbulent postcolonial experience Beyond the Silk Roads Magnus Marsden, 2021-09-09 Explores how long distance trading networks and commercial hubs connect geopolitically fraught Eurasian contexts in the twenty first century This title is also available as Open Access A Slave Between Empires M'hamed Oualdi, 2020-02-04 In June 1887 a man known as General Husayn a manumitted slave turned dignitary in the Ottoman province of Tunis passed away in Florence after a life crossing empires As a youth Husayn was brought from Circassia to Turkey where he was sold as a slave In Tunis he ascended to the rank of general before French conquest forced his exile to the northern shores of the Mediterranean His death was followed by wrangling over his estate that spanned a surprising array of actors Ottoman Sultan Abd lhamid II and his viziers the Tunisian French and Italian governments and representatives of Muslim and Jewish diasporic communities A Slave Between Empires investigates Husayn's transimperial life and the posthumous battle over his fortune to recover the transnational dimensions of North African history M'hamed Oualdi places Husayn within the international context of the struggle between Ottoman and French forces for control of the Mediterranean amid social and intellectual ferment that crossed empires Oualdi considers this part of the world not as a colonial borderland but as a central space where overlapping imperial ambitions transformed dynamic societies He explores how the transition between Ottoman rule and European colonial domination was felt in the daily lives of North African Muslims Christians and Jews and how North Africans conceived of and acted upon this shift Drawing on a wide range of Arabic French Italian and English sources A Slave Between Empires is a groundbreaking transimperial microhistory that demands a major analytical shift in the conceptualization of North African history France and Algeria Phillip Naylor, 2024-06-11 An examination of the complicated history between France and Algeria since the latter's independence While most related studies concentrate on the colonial era and Algeria's War of Independence France and Algeria details the nation's postcolonial relationship Phillip Naylor provides a philosophical approach contending that France reformulated rather than repudiated essential strategic values during decolonization It thus continued to pursue grandeur and independence especially with regard to the Third World and Algeria an essentialism that expedited France's postcolonial transformation But as a new nation Algeria needed to pursue the existential project of self definition It became involved in state building while also promulgating socialism and it recognized how French oil concessions in the Sahara impeded its independence leading to the industry's postcolonial decolonization Finally the postcolonial relationship has featured a human dimension involving immigrants pieds noirs colonial settlers and harkis Algerian soldiers loyal to France all of them central to bilateral relations In this revised and updated edition of his seminal work first published over twenty years ago Naylor expands his coverage of the decolonization era

drawing on new information while continuing to study the ever evolving relationship between the two countries These new additions expose the continually shifting relations of power perception and identity between the two states

Mecca of Revolution Jeffrey James Byrne, 2016-03-15 Through an examination of Algeria's interactions with the wider world from the beginning of its war of independence to the fall of its first post colonial regime Mecca of Revolution provides the Third Worldist perspective on twentieth century international history Featuring pioneering research on multiple continents it rejuvenates the fields of diplomatic history and post colonial studies

French Mediterraneans Patricia M. E. Lorcin, Todd Shepard, 2016-05 While the Mediterranean is often considered a distinct unified space recent scholarship on the early modern history of the sea has suggested that this perspective is essentially a Western one devised from the vantage point of imperial power that historically patrolled the region's seas and controlled its ports By contrast for the peoples of its southern shores the Mediterranean was polymorphous shifting with the economic and seafaring exigencies of the moment Nonetheless by the nineteenth century the idea of a monolithic Mediterranean had either been absorbed by or imposed on the populations of the region In French Mediterraneans editors Patricia M E Lorcin and Todd Shepard offer a collection of scholarship that reveals the important French element in the nineteenth and twentieth century creation of the singular Mediterranean These essays provide a critical study of space and movement through new approaches to think about the maps migrations and margins of the sea in the French imperial and transnational context By reconceptualizing the Mediterranean this volume illuminates the diversity of connections between places and polities that rarely fit models of nation state allegiances or preordained geographies

Routledge Handbook on the Modern Maghrib George Joffé, 2023-11-20 This comprehensive Routledge Handbook on the Modern Maghrib introduces and analyses the region in its full complexity focussing on the countries of Morocco Tunisia Algeria and Libya as well as the regions of the northern and western Sahara In addition to country studies that provide historical and geopolitical background a series of thematic explorations engage with a range of social linguistic cultural and economic aspects providing a rich mosaic of current scholarship on the region Addressing important debates such as the volatile international relations among constituent states the role of women in society and the environmental impact of climate change the book considers natural resources music media and language and revisits the history of borders and social tribal structures What emerges is not only a variegated picture of the Maghrib as a complex and rapidly changing region but one marked by stark contrasts and divergences among its constituent states based on their Ottoman and colonial experiences their relationships with their Saharan and Mediterranean neighbours and their own political trajectories This Handbook fills an important gap in knowledge on a region increasingly significant in European and American affairs and will appeal to anyone interested in the history economies and societies of North Africa

Electric News in Colonial Algeria Arthur Asseraf, 2019-08-08 How do the things which connect us also serve to divide us Electric News in Colonial Algeria traces how news circulated in a particularly divided society Algeria under French rule in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries It tells a different history of globalization one which puts the experience of everyday people at the centre The years between 1881 and 1940 were those of maximum colonial power in North Africa a period of intense technological revolution global high imperialism and the expansion of settler colonialism Algerians became connected to international networks of news and local people followed distant events with great interest But once news reached Algeria accounts of recent events often provoked conflict as they moved between different social groups In a society split between its native majority and a substantial settler minority distant wars led to riots Circulation and polarisation were two sides of the same coin Examining a range of sources in multiple languages across colonial society Electric News in Colonial Algeria offers a new understanding of the spread of news News was a whole ecosystem in which new technologies such as the printing press telegraph cinema and radio interacted with older media like songs rumours letters and manuscripts The French government watched anxiously over these developments monitoring Algerians reactions to news through an extensive network of surveillance that often ended up spreading news rather than controlling its flow By tracking what different people thought of as news this history helps us reconsider the relationship between time media and historical change

Islam and the European Empires David Motadel, 2014-09-04 At the height of the imperial age European powers ruled over most parts of the Islamic world The British French Russian and Dutch empires each governed more Muslims than any independent Muslim state European officials believed Islam to be of great political significance and were quite cautious when it came to matters of the religious life of their Muslim subjects In the colonies they regularly employed Islamic religious leaders and institutions to bolster imperial rule At the same time the European presence in Muslim lands was confronted by religious resistance movements and Islamic insurgency Across the globe from the West African savanna to the shores of Southeast Asia Muslim rebels called for holy war against non Muslim intruders Islam and the European Empires presents the first comparative account of the engagement of all major European empires with Islam Bringing together fifteen of the world's leading scholars in the field the volume explores a wide array of themes ranging from the accommodation of Islam under imperial rule to Islamic anti colonial resistance A truly global history of empire the volume makes a major contribution not only to our knowledge of the intersection of Islam and imperialism but also more generally to our understanding of religion and power in the modern world
