Beyond the Bottom Line Andrew Spicer, Anthony McKenna, Christopher Meir, 2014-07-31 This is the first collection of original critical essays devoted to exploring the misunderstood neglected and frequently caricatured role played by the film producer The editors introduction provides a conceptual and methodological overview arguing that the producer's complex and multifaceted role is crucial to a film's success or failure The collection is divided into three sections where detailed individual essays explore a broad range of contrasting producers working in different historical geographical generic and industrial contexts Rather than suggest there is a single type of producer the collection analyses the rich variety of roles producers play providing fascinating and informative insights into how the film industry actually works This groundbreaking collection challenges several of the conventional orthodoxies of film studies providing a new approach that will become required reading for scholars and students

Indian Arrivals, 1870-1915 Elleke Boehmer, 2015 Indian Arrivals 1870 1915 Networks of British Empire examines how at the height of empire Britain was threaded through with Indian influences and ideas in spite of colonial divisions Throughout the study is motivated by the notion that Indian travellers learned from the friendships they made in the west but also that they contributed to the development of a late Victorian cosmopolitanism of which they were an intrinsic part Tracing the intricate encounters that took place between arriving Indians and their British hosts often through the medium of literature and journalism the book paints a more textured picture than has been available to date of cross cultural contact between Indians and Britons and in so doing explores the myriad ways in which the centre of the nineteenth century imperial world was criss crossed by its margins just as the margins were by the centre Indian Arrivals offers a sustained reflection on what it is to arrive in another culture in
