Civic Engagement Assessment: Linking Activities to Attitudes

Dawn Geronimo Terkla, Lisa S. O'Leary,

IN THE MARCH–APRIL 2005 ISSUE OF ASSESSMENT UPDATE, TRUDY BANTA ISSUED A call to readers to provide information on individual campuses' efforts to assess civic engagement. This call has prompted us to share the multifaceted approach that Tufts University has taken to describe and assess this area of student endeavor. Specifically, we will describe an in-depth study designed to investigate undergraduates' participation in and attitudes toward civic engagement.

Recently, higher education has witnessed a renewed commitment to the mission of preparing students for lives of active citizenship (Boyer, 1996; Checkoway, 2001; Harkavy, 2006). Under the leadership of President Lawrence S. Bacow, Tufts University has articulated an institutional mission that embraces three areas of focus: active citizenship, internationalism, and life sciences and the environment. The Tufts vision statement supports these initiatives, declaring, "As an institution, we are committed to improving the human condition through education and discovery. Beyond this commitment, we will strive to be a model for society at large. We want to foster an attitude of 'giving back,' an understanding that active citizen participation is essential to freedom and democracy, and a desire to make the world a better place."

Institutional statements such as this vision statement provide evidence that effective student civic engagement is important and receiving recognition. To these ends, Tufts is also working to infuse active citizenship throughout the university, from first-year orientation to alumni relations, for students, faculty, and staff in the undergraduate colleges and in the graduate and professional schools. The Jonathan M. Tisch College of Citizenship and Public Service (Tisch College) was established in 2000 to facilitate and support a wide range of programs that build faculty and student knowledge, skills, and values in civic engagement. To evaluate these efforts, the Office of Institutional Research and Evaluation conducts annual surveys that, among other things, assess student, faculty, and alumni participation in civic engagement. Questions on students' involvement in civic engagement activities and their attitudes toward such activities have been
