Between Colliding Worlds Between Colliding Worlds:

Between Colliding Worlds Jonathan Malloy, Institute of Public Administration of Canada, 2003-01-01 Jonathan Malloy's Between Colliding Worlds examines the relationship between governments and external activists through a comparative study of policy units dedicated to aboriginal and women's issues in Australia and Canada. Malloy identifies these units or special policy agencies as sitting on the boundary between the world of permanent public servants and that of collective social movements working for broad social and political change. These agencies at once represent the interests of social movements to government while simultaneously managing relations with social movements on behalf of government and thus operate in a state of permanent ambiguity. Malloy contends that rather than criticizing these agencies for their inherently contradictory nature we must reconsider them as effectively dealing with the delicate issue of bridging social movements with state politics. In other words the very existence of these special policy agencies provides a forum for social movements and the state to work out their differences. Relying heavily on interviews with public servants and external activists Malloy argues convincingly that special policy agencies despite or because of their ambiguous relationship to different communities make critical contributions to governance.

Tales of Two Cities Sylvia Bashevkin, 2011-11-01 In the age of globalization state restructuring is changing the political landscape. How does reshaping local government affect citizen involvement in public life? As cities move between centralized and decentralized governance and conservative and progressive leadership what brings out the best and the worst in civic engagement? In this thought provoking book Sylvia Bashevkin examines the consequences of divergent restructuring experiences in London and Toronto. By focusing on the forced amalgamation of local boroughs in Toronto and the creation of a new metropolitan authority in London Tales of Two Cities explores the fallout for women as urban citizens. Ultimately context is crucial to whether municipal change signals pessimism or promise. Clear insightful and prescient Tales of Two Cities will appeal to those interested in civic affairs political inclusion and the future of democracy in major urban centres.

Backrooms and Beyond Jonathan Craft, 2016-05-12 Though they serve in many roles and under many titles no one doubts that political staffs now wield substantial influence in the making of government policy. Backrooms and Beyond draws on interviews with ministers senior public servants and political advisers to offer the first detailed Canadian treatment of how that influence is gained and exercised in the policy making process. A comparative analysis of case studies from three Canadian jurisdictions including the federal Prime Minister's Office two premier's offices and ministers' offices the book presents a detailed account of partisan advisers' involvement in policy work and a new theoretical framework for understanding this work and its impact As Jonathan Craft shows partisan advisers often engage in policy work with public servants outside stakeholders and often in types of policy work that public servants cannot Backrooms and Beyond is a rich and rigorous look at an important aspect of contemporary Canadian politics essential reading for scholars and practitioners journalists students of the Westminster system from around the world and those wanting to understand just how policy is made today

Behind the Scenes Robert Alexander Wardhaugh, Douglas MacEwan, 2010-01-01 Robert A Wardhaugh chronicles Clark's contributions to Canada's modern state in Behind the Scenes which reconstructs the public life and ideas of one of Canada's most important bureaucrats

A Quiet Evolution Christopher Alcantara, Jen Nelles, 2016-08-12 Much of the coverage surrounding the relationship between Indigenous communities and the Crown in Canada has focused on the federal provincial and territorial governments Yet it is at the local level where some of the most important and significant partnerships are being made between Indigenous and non-Indigenous peoples In A Quiet Evolution Christopher Alcantara and Jen Nelles look closely at hundreds of agreements from across Canada and at four case studies drawn from Ontario Quebec and Yukon Territory to explore relationships between Indigenous and local governments By analyzing the various ways in which they work together the authors provide an original transferable framework for studying any type of intergovernmental partnership at the local level Timely and accessible A Quiet Evolution is a call to politicians policymakers and citizens alike to encourage Indigenous and local governments to work towards mutually beneficial partnerships

Fields of Authority Jack Lucas, 2016-06-16 Everywhere we turn in Canadian local politics from policing to transit education to public health planning to utilities we encounter a peculiar institutional animal the special purpose body These ABCs of local government library boards school boards transit authorities and many others provide vital public services spend large sums of public money and raise important questions about local democratic accountability In Fields of Authority Jack Lucas provides the first systematic exploration of local special purpose bodies in Ontario Drawing on extensive research in local and provincial archives Lucas uses a policy fields approach to explain how these local bodies in Ontario have developed from the nineteenth century to the present A lively and accessible study Fields of Authority will appeal to readers interested in Canadian political history urban politics and urban public policy
