Although closely identified with heterodox French economists, there are several schools of regulation theory and the approach has also been linked to many topics across the social sciences. Bob Jessop and Ngai Ling Sum provide detailed criticisms of the various schools of the regulation approach and their empirical application and have developed new ways of integrating it into a more general critical exploration of contemporary capitalism. The authors go on to describe how the regulation approach can be further developed as a progressive research paradigm in political economy. Also presented is a detailed philosophical as well as theoretical critique of the regulation approach and its implications for the philosophy of social sciences and questions of historical analysis especially periodization. Addressing the implications of the regulation approach for both the capitalist economy and the changing role of the state and governance, this book will be of great interest to a wide ranging audience including institutional and evolutionary economists, economic and political sociologists and social and political theorists.

Media Effects and Beyond Karl Erik Rosengren, 2005-09-27. Addressing a multitude of questions and issues surrounding how we use the media, Media Effects and Beyond represents the results of an international research programme into the use and effects of television, video and music. Seeing the viewer not simply as a passive object but as a very active subject, the contributors engage with every aspect of children's, adolescents' and families' use of the media, its character, causes and consequences. Topics explored include media and social mobility, family communication and consumer lifestyles. Confronting the two traditions of lifestyle research and effects research, Media Effects and Beyond offers a much needed reconceptualization of both. Written at a time when traditional European public service media systems struggle against a tidal wave of commercial electronic media, this book will be important reading for students of contemporary culture and communications as well as media policy for decision makers.
