A Blockaded Family: Life in Southern Alabama During the Civil War Parthenia Antoinette Hague, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1888 edition Excerpt XIV Just as soon as the railroads could be repaired and bridges builded anew I made haste to get to my father's again to find how all had gone with them while our foes were marching through Georgia I had tried for three months or more to get a letter or message of some sort to them as they had to me but all communication for the time being was completely broken up I had spent many sad hours thinking of those at home and was almost afraid to hear from them but as soon as a train ran to Columbus I ventured forth I had traveled over the same road time and again on my way to and from home but now as I beheld the ruins of grim visaged war whichever way I cast my eyes I must confess to a somewhat rebellious and bitter feeling There are moments in the experience of every human being when the heart overflows like the great Egyptian river and cannot be restrained O thou great God of Israel I cried why hast thou permitted this dire calamity to befall us Why is it that our homes are so despoiled And I marveled not at the captive Hebrews mournful plaint as by the rivers of Babylon they hung their harps on the willows As the train slowed up on the Alabama side of the Chattahoochee River I looked eagerly over to the opposite bank where the home of my father was situated For a few seconds my pulse must have ceased to throb as I beheld the ruins of the city of Columbus With others I took my seat in an omnibus and was driven to the river s edge there to await the coming of the ferry boat which had been built since all the bridges on the river had been burned by the hostile army The scene seemed so unreal that like Abou Hassan the caliph of fiction I was thinking of biting my fingers to make sure I was really awake
