African Rain Forest Ecology And Conservation An Interdisciplinary Perspective:

African Rain Forest Ecology and Conservation William Weber, Lee J. T. White, Lisa Naughton-Treves, Amy Vedder, 2001-01-01 Extending from west Africa to Madagascar from the vast lowland Congo Basin to the archipelago of forest islands on its eastern rim the African rain forest is surpassed in size only by the Amazon This book sheds light on the current efforts to understand and conserve the African rain forest an area in need of urgent action to save its biological wealth cultural heritage and economic potential Written by conservation scientists and practitioners based in the African rain forest the book offers a multidisciplinary perspective that integrates many biological and social sciences Early chapters trace the forces from paleoecological factors to recent human actions that have shaped the African forest environment The next chapters discuss the dominant biological patterns of species ranging from the distinctive elephants gorillas and okapi to the less well known birds butterflies and amphibians Other chapters focus on how such different groups as hunter gatherers forest farmers bushmeat hunters recent immigrants and commercial foresters have used the forests Several authors stress the need for tighter links between research and conservation action The final section draws lessons from the collective experience of those working in an Africa wracked by political strife and economic hardship Tropical Rain Forest Ecology, Diversity, and Conservation Jaboury Ghazoul, Douglas Sheil, 2024-03-14 Rain forests represent the world's richest repository of terrestrial biodiversity and play a major role in regulating the global climate They support the livelihoods of a substantial proportion of the world's population and are the source of many internationally traded commodities They remain despite decades of conservation attention increasingly vulnerable to degradation and clearance with profound though often uncertain future costs to global society Understanding the ecology of these diverse biomes and peoples dependencies on them is fundamental to their future management and conservation Tropical Rain Forest Ecology Diversity and Conservation introduces and explores what rain forests are how they arose what they contain how they function and how humans use and impact them The book starts by introducing the variety of rain forest plants fungi microorganisms and animals emphasising the spectacular diversity that is the motivation for their conservation The central chapters describe the origins of rain forest communities the variety of rain forest formations and their ecology and dynamics The challenge of explaining the species richness of rain forest communities lies at the heart of ecological theory and forms a common theme throughout The book's final section considers historical and current interactions of humans and rain forests It explores biodiversity conservation as well as livelihood security for the many communities that are dependent on rain forests inextricable issues that represent urgent priorities for scientists conservationists and policy makers Industrial Agriculture and Ape Conservation Helga Rainer, Alison R. T. White, Arcus Foundation, Annette Lanjouw, 2015-12-17 Presents new research and analysis along with case studies to examine the interface between ape conservation and industrial agriculture This title is available as Open Access Plants and People in the African Past Anna Maria Mercuri, A. Catherine D'Andrea, Rita Fornaciari, Alexa Höhn, 2018-07-31

There is an essential connection between humans and plants cultures and environments and this is especially evident looking at the long history of the African continent This book comprising current research in archaeobotany on Africa elucidates human adaptation and innovation with respect to the exploitation of plant resources In the long term perspective climatic changes of the environment as well as human impact have posed constant challenges to the interaction between peoples and the plants growing in different countries and latitudes This book provides an insight into overview of the manifold routes people have taken in various parts Africa in order to make a decent living from the provisions of their environment by bringing together the analyses of macroscopic and microscopic plant remains with ethnographic botanical geographical and linguistic research The numerous chapters cover almost all the continent countries and were prepared by most of the scholars who study African archaeobotany i e the complex and composite history of plant uses and environmental transformations during the Holocene

Empty Hands, Open Arms Deni Ellis Béchard, 2013-10-01 Absorbing Béchard's masterful adventure driven reporting delivers an inspiring account of an all too rare ecological success story Booklist Bonobos have captured the public imagination due not least to their famously active sex lives Less well known is the fact that these great apes don't kill their own kind and that they share nearly 99% of our DNA Their approach to building peaceful coalitions and sharing resources has much to teach us particularly at a time when our violent ways have pushed them to the brink of extinction Animated by a desire to understand bonobos and learn how to save them Deni Ellis Béchard traveled into the Congo Empty Hands Open Arms is the account of this journey Along the way we see how partnerships between Congolese and Westerners with few resources but a common purpose and respect for indigenous knowledge have resulted in the protection of vast swaths of the rainforest And we discover how small solutions found through openness humility and the principle that poverty does not equal ignorance are often most effective in tackling our biggest challenges Combining elements of travelogue journalism and natural history this incomparably rich book takes the reader not only deep into the Congo but also into our past and future revealing new ways to save the environment and ourselves Riveting and surprisingly uplifting David Suzuki author of The Sacred Balance The embodiment of the type of reporting that we dream of reading but all too rarely encounter intelligent engaged and above all astonishingly perceptive Dinaw Mengestu author of The Beautiful Things That Heaven Bears Also published as Of Bonobos and Men

Forest Climbing Plants of West Africa Frans Bongers, Marc P. E. Parren, Dossahua Traoré, 2005 Climbing plants including lianas represent a fascinating component of the ecology of tropical forests This book focuses on the climbing plants of West African forests Based on original research it presents information on the flora including a checklist diversity with overviews at several levels of integration ecology distribution characteristics in relation to environment their role in forest ecosystems and ethnobotany Forestry aspects such as their impact on tree growth and development and the effects of forestry interventions on climbers are also covered

Humans and the Environment Matthew I. J. Davies, Freda Nkirote M'Mbogori, 2013-06-27 The environment has always been a central concept for archaeologists and although it has been conceived in many ways its role in archaeological explanation has fluctuated from a mere backdrop to human action to a primary factor in the understanding of society and social change Archaeology also has a unique position as its base of interest places it temporally between geological and ethnographic timescales spatially between global and local dimensions and epistemologically between empirical studies of environmental change and more heuristic studies of cultural practice Drawing on data from across the globe at a variety of temporal and spatial scales this volume resituates the way in which archaeologists use and apply the concept of the environment Each chapter critically explores the potential for archaeological data and practice to contribute to modern environmental issues including problems of climate change and environmental degradation Overall the volume covers four basic themes archaeological approaches to the way in which both scientists and locals conceive of the relationship between humans and their environment applied environmental archaeology the archaeology of disaster and new interdisciplinary directions The volume will be of interest to students and established archaeologists as well as practitioners from a range of applied disciplines

Biotic Interactions in the Tropics David Burslem,Michelle Pinard,Sue Hartley,2005-09-08 Tropical ecosystems house a significant proportion of global biodiversity To understand how these ecosystems function we need to appreciate not only what plants animals and microbes they contain but also how they interact with each other This volume first published in 2005 synthesises the state of knowledge in this area with chapters providing reviews or case studies drawn from research conducted in both Old and New World tropics and including biotic interactions among taxa at all trophic levels In most chapters plants typically trees are the starting point but taken together the chapters consider interactions of plants with other plants with micro organisms and with animals and the inter relationships of human induced disturbance with interactions among species An underlying theme of the volume is the attempt to understand the maintenance of high diversity in tropical regions which remains one of the most significant unexplained observations in ecological studies

Archaeology of African Plant Use Chris J Stevens,Sam Nixon,Mary Anne Murray,Dorian Q Fuller,2016-07-01 The first major synthesis of African archaeobotany in decades this book focuses on Paleolithic archaeobotany and the relationship between agriculture and social complexity It explores the effects that plant life has had on humans as they evolved from primates through the complex societies of Africa including Egypt the Buganda Kingdom southern African polities and other regions With over 30 contributing scholars from 12 countries and extensive illustrations this volume is an essential addition to our knowledge of humanity s relationship with plants

An Archaeology of the Bantu Expansion Peter R. Coutros,Jessamy H. Doman,Igor Matonda Sakala,Koen Bostoen,2025-07-22 The Bantu Expansion is one of the most intriguing issues in African history Based on extensive fieldwork in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and laboratory analysis this book provides the most comprehensive up to date and multi proxy account of the first Bantu speakers south of the Congo rainforest This volume begins with state of the art reviews of the archaeological palaeoenvironmental genetic linguistic and oral historical contexts of the Bantu Expansion and includes evidence from over 150 previously unknown archaeological sites with extensive analyses of pottery lithics soil stable isotopes phytoliths charcoal and human remains Seven appendices contain the full metadata radiometric and geographical data for each site and comparative language data The volume concludes with a sweeping interdisciplinary reconstruction of the first Bantu speaking settlers in the Kwilu Kasai region and rethinks how farming climate change and contact with Central African hunter gatherers and Ubangi speakers impacted their lifeworld This book is indispensable for scholars and students of Africa from a wide variety of fields such as archaeology palaeoecology linguistics population genetics history and anthropology and of considerable interest to scientists active in other parts of the world All who think African history matters will find it a valuable source
