

Self-Improvement Essay Essay

Many individuals have presented information on how to enhance your life. These thoughts date back to the days of ancient Greek's philosopher Aristotle and his viewpoints. These thoughts are also as new as Deepak Chopra's 20th century viewpoints and everything in between. Despite the differences in time and culture, the way of thinking for personal life advancement has remained similar. These ideas, concepts, and techniques will contribute to my personal self-improvement including: Think and Grow Rich, Personality Type, Character Strengths, Law of Giving, and Virtues. Self-improvement may be started with the Think and Grow Rich concept.

Andrew Carnegie (1835-1919) led an expansion in the American Steel industry in the late 1800's. He was also the highest profile Philanthropists in his time. Along with his monopoly of the industry, Carnegie shared his wisdom of becoming a billionaire with Napoleon Hill (1883-1970). Hill simply summarized what Carnegie had to say into one famous quote "Whatever the mind can conceive and believe, the mind can achieve." Hill added that no matter how many times you have failed in the past, you can still do whatever you set your mind to do - even if it seems out of reach.

The only way this will work in your favor is based on the idea that you have complete power over your mind. Hill used gratitude, burning desire and persistence to define the proper technique for this process. You decide what you want in life, visualize it in your mind, and do what necessary means it takes to achieve that desire. Hill presented us with the idea that in life you are handed two envelopes at birth. One is filled with the riches you will obtain when you take control of your mind and aim toward your goals.
