Africa Dilemmas Of Development And Change:

Africa Peter Lewis,1998-07-10 In the decades since independence the countries of sub Saharan Africa have faced three central dilemmas of development The first has been the challenge of state building In the wake of colonial rule governments have encountered the problems of establishing legitimate authority and constructing capable states A second dilemma has been that of nation building and state society relations African countries have confronted the difficulties of managing ethnic diversity forging national identities and negotiating relations between citizens and rulers The third challenge encompasses problems of economic development as the region has grappled with a legacy of poverty slow growth and external dependence This collection provides an overview of the leading themes and issues in these three critical areas of Africa s postindependent development A selection of pathbreaking articles provides insights into the key questions the major theories and the outstanding challenges in African development Written by today s most influential African scholars the readings cover a variety of topics including political leadership forms of state power the role of civil society the importance of class ethnicity and gender and the prospects for democratic change in the region Changes in African political economies are also addressed focusing special attention on the debt crisis and the problems of economic reform A final section focuses on the present day challenges to African development the spread of refugees pressures on the environment the devastating toll of AIDS and the threat of state collapse Providing a broad historical perspective on Africa s political and economic development and an overview of current problems and prospects this collection will be especially useful for advanced undergraduates graduate students and development professionals

Africa Peter Lewis,2018-02-20 This book focuses on the historical construction of African states the modes of political control in the region and the character of political elites It examines the nature of political legitimacy and the avenues of participation or withdrawal pursued by various popular sectors

Kwame Nkrumah's Liberation Thought Robert Yaw Owusu,2006 An attempt to recapture the liberation philosophy of Kwame Nkrumah first prime minister of Ghana Owusu seeks to define a theoretical basis on which a modern socio political and ethical structure for Ghana can be built and offers a paradigm for developing a role of advocacy to the Ghanaian religious edifice He also strives to recapitulate Ghana s self dignity self realisation and self subsistence by highlighting the essential assumptions dimensions and specificities of African personhood

Transforming Mozambique M. Anne Pitcher,2002-11-14 Many of the economic transformations in Africa have been as dramatic as those in Eastern Europe Yet much of the comparative literature on transitions has overlooked African countries This 2002 study of Mozambique s shift from a command to a market economy draws on a wealth of empirical material including archival sources interviews political posters and corporate advertisements to reveal that the state is a central actor in the reform process despite the claims of neo liberals and their critics Alongside the state social forces from World Bank officials to rural smallholders have also accelerated thwarted or shaped change in Mozambique M Anne Pitcher offers an intriguing analysis of the dynamic interaction between previous and emerging agents ideas and institutions to explain the erosion of socialism and the politics of privatization in a developing country She demonstrates that Mozambique's political economy is a heterogeneous blend of ideological and institutional continuities and ruptures

Aid Effectiveness in Africa Phyllis R. Pomerantz, 2004-11-20 A significant contribution to the ongoing debate on aid effectiveness Aid Effectiveness in Africa starts from the premise that money alone will not bring sustained development to Africa With grounding in years of experience and fieldwork Phyllis R Pomerantz examines the relationship between aid donors and recipients and the extent to which trust is present in today's aid environment Pomerantz concludes that there are serious gaps created in part by a striking lack of knowledge of the African context and culture on the part of the donors and troublesome institutional constraints that make it difficult for aid agencies to change the way they operate. Joining the urgent call to transform aid agencies and increase aid effectiveness and eschewing pat solutions and simple formulae, the book offers realistic recommendations and provides an eloquent argument for further far-reaching reform. The Handbook of

Political, Social, and Economic Transformation Wolfgang Merkel, Raj Kollmorgen, Hans-Jürgen Wagener, 2019-01-03

Political, social, and economic transformation is a complex historical phenomenon. It can adequately be analysed only by a multidisciplinary approach. The Handbook brings together an international team of scholars who are specialists in their respective research fields. It introduces the most important areas, theories, and methods in transformation research, with particular attention placed on the historical and comparative dimension. Although focussing on post-communist and other democratic transformations in our epoch, the Handbook therefore presents and discusses not only their problems, paths, and developments but also deals with the antecedent waves beginning with the Meiji Restoration in Japan in 1868 and its aftermath. The book is structured into six parts. Starting with basic concepts as systems, actors, and institutions, Section I gives an overview over major theoretical approaches and research methods. Sections II and III: The connection of theory and method with their application is essential, allowing special insights into the past and opening analytical avenues for transformation research in the future. Section IV provides a historically oriented description or interpretation of particular waves or types of societal transformation. With a clear focus on present transformations, the contributions to Section V provide a description and discussion of the problems, structures, actors, and courses of the transformations within different spheres of civil society, politics, law, and economics. Finally, brief lexicographic entries in Section VI delineate research perspectives and facts about relevant issues of societal transformation. Each of the 79 contributions contains a concise list of the most important research literature. Guarding the Guardians Mathurin C. Hounnikpo, 2016-04-22

The relationship between civil society and the armed forces is an essential part of any polity, democratic or otherwise, because a military force is after all a universal feature of social systems. Despite significant progress moving towards democracy among some African countries in the past decade, all too many African militaries have yet to accept core democratic principles regulating civilian authority over the military. This book explores the theory of civil-military relations and moves on to review the intrusion of the armed forces in African politics by looking first into the organization and role of the army in pre-colonial and colonial eras, before examining contemporary armies and their impact on society. Furthermore, it revisits the various explanations of military takeovers in Africa and disentangles the notion of the military as the modernizing force. Whether as a revolutionary force, as a stabilizing force, or as a modernizing force, the military has often been perceived as the only organized and disciplined group with the necessary skills to uplift newly independent nations. The performance of Africa's military governments since independence, however, has soundly disproven this thesis. As such, this study conveys the necessity of new civil-military relations in Africa and calls not just for civilian control of the military but rather a democratic oversight of the security forces in Africa Sorting Africa's Developmental Puzzle Almaz Zewde, 2010-06-02

Sorting Africa's Developmental Puzzle The Participatory Social Learning Theory as an Alternative Approach is a comprehensive exploration of why Africa has not managed to achieve a sustainable and self regenerating development over the past half century of effort The work situates the problems of Africa's persistent underdevelopment in the practices employed by national political elites donors and lenders to African development that played roles in determinant policy and planning Unlike many newly developed countries and regions and contrary to the historical experiences of developed countries where ordinary people were full stakeholders and drivers of development Africa's development has been top down expert and capital driven mechanical and typically externally designed Ordinary Africans were made marginal to development This approach to Africa's development was devoid of building the people and their institutions as the legitimate means of development The entrusting of Africa's development to local and international elites to the exclusion of the people from decision making and full participation has led to grievous deficits in the formation of human and social capital and legitimate economic social and political institutions for development The book offers a studied alternative that can positively change Africa's development direction The Participatory Social Learning Approach The philosophical theoretical historical and heuristic origins of this alternative are offered in detail within this book

Pan-Africanism, and the Politics of African Citizenship and Identity Toyin Falola, Kwame Essien, 2013-10-08

There is no recent literature that underscores the transition from Pan Africanism to Diaspora discourse This book examines the gradual shift and four major transformations in the study of Pan Africanism It offers an academic post mortem that seeks to gauge the extent to which Pan Africanism overlaps with the study of the African Diaspora and reverse migrations how Diaspora studies has penetrated various disciplines while Pan Africanism is located on the periphery of the field The book argues that the gradual shift from Pan African discourses has created a new pathway for engaging Pan African ideology from academic and social perspectives Also the book raises questions about the recent political waves that have swept across North Africa and their implications to the study of twenty first century Pan African solidarity on the African continent The ways in which African institutions are attracting and mobilizing returnees and Pan Africanists with incentives as dual citizenship for diasporans to support reforms in Africa offers a new alternative approach for exploring Pan African ideology in the twenty first century Returnees are also using these incentives to gain economic and cultural advantage The book will appeal to policy makers government institutions research libraries undergraduate and graduate students and scholars from many different disciplines

Enjoying the Melody of Appearance: An Emotional Symphony within Africa Dilemmas Of Development And Change

In a global taken by displays and the ceaseless chatter of instant connection, the melodic elegance and mental symphony developed by the prepared term often disappear in to the background, eclipsed by the constant noise and disruptions that permeate our lives. However, located within the pages of Africa Dilemmas Of Development And Change an enchanting fictional prize overflowing with raw thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by a masterful composer of language, that captivating masterpiece conducts readers on an emotional trip, skillfully unraveling the hidden tunes and profound impact resonating within each cautiously constructed phrase. Within the depths of this touching review, we will explore the book is main harmonies, analyze its enthralling writing fashion, and submit ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
