Braintrust What Neuroscience Tells Us About Morality:

Braintrust Patricia S. Churchland, 2018-05-22 A provocative new account of how morality evolved What is morality Where does it come from And why do most of us heed its call most of the time In Braintrust neurophilosophy pioneer Patricia Churchland argues that morality originates in the biology of the brain She describes the neurobiological platform of bonding that modified by evolutionary pressures and cultural values has led to human styles of moral behavior The result is a provocative genealogy of morals that asks us to reevaluate the priority given to religion absolute rules and pure reason in accounting for the basis of morality Moral values Churchland argues are rooted in a behavior common to all mammals the caring for offspring The evolved structure processes and chemistry of the brain incline humans to strive not only for self preservation but for the well being of allied selves first offspring then mates kin and so on in wider and wider caring circles Separation and exclusion cause pain and the company of loved ones causes pleasure responding to feelings of social pain and pleasure brains adjust their circuitry to local customs In this way caring is apportioned conscience molded and moral intuitions instilled A key part of the story is oxytocin an ancient body and brain molecule that by decreasing the stress response allows humans to develop the trust in one another necessary for the development of close knit ties social institutions and morality A major new account of what really makes us moral Braintrust challenges us to reconsider the origins of some of our most cherished values International Legal Theory and the Cognitive Turn Anne van Aaken, Moshe Hirsch, 2025-04-02 Cognitive and behavioural studies are making inroads into international law international policy and literature Firstly international practice is drawing increasingly on behavioural studies The United Nations UN and its agencies have turned to behavioural science to confront new challenges faced by the international community including the Sustainable Development Goals climate change and gender equality Similarly the World Bank and World Health Organization have created teams of experts to advise on the incorporation of behavioural insights to support their operations Other international organizations are likewise following suit Secondly the cognitive behavioural turn is generating innovative research work in disciplines neighbouring international law and is gaining similar traction in international legal scholarship Yet despite this the implications of cognitive behavioural studies for international legal theory remain under explored With few exceptions international legal theories have long failed to explicitly address the cognitive behavioural assumptions of their respective theoretical approaches To fill this gap this book systematically examines the impact of the cognitive behavioural turn on the main theoretical schools within international legal scholarship Across thirteen chapters the contributors uncover the cognitive bases of their respective theories exploring both the cognitive similarities underlying the assumptions of different theories of international law as well as the limitations of the use of behavioural science in international law theories International Legal Theory and the Cognitive Turn makes explicit the relationship between cognitive behavioral methodologies and other ways of thinking about international law including TWAIL feminist and legal realist approaches and more This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International licence It is free to read on Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Dual-Process Theories in Moral Psychology Cordula Brand,2016-03-21 This anthology offers a unique collection of contributions focusing on the discussion about the so called dual process theories within the field of moral psychology In general dual process theories state that in cognitive systems two sorts of processes can be differentiated an affective associative process and an analytical rule based process This distinction recently entered the debate on the relationship between intuitive and rational approaches to explaining the phenomenon of moral judgment The increasing interest in these theories raises questions concerning their general impact on social contexts The anthology aims at presenting stepping stones of an analysis of the merits and drawbacks of this development For that purpose the authors discuss general questions concerning the relationship between ethics and empirical sciences methodological questions reassessments of established terminology and societal implications of dual process theories in moral psychology

Psychiatric Neuroethics Walter Glannon,2018-12-13 Advances in psychiatric research and clinical psychiatry in the last 30 years have given rise to a host of new questions that lie at the intersection of psychiatry neuroscience philosophy and law Such questions include Are psychiatric disorders diseases of the brain caused by dysfunctional neural circuits and neurotransmitters What role do genes neuro endocrine neuro immune interactions and the environment play in the development of these disorders How do different explanations of the etiology and pathophysiology of mental illness influence diagnosis prognosis and decisions about treatment Would it be rational for a person with a chronic treatment resistant disorder to request euthanasia or assisted suicide to end their suffering Could psychiatric disorders be predicted and prevented Psychiatric Neuroethics explores these questions in a comprehensive and systematic way discussing the medical and philosophical implications of neuroscience and the Research Domain Criteria RDoc in the fields of psychiatry and mental health It examines the extent to which circuit based criteria can offer a satisfactory explanation of psychiatric disorders and how they compare with the symptom based criteria of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders DSMV This book will be of interest to a multidisciplinary audience including psychiatrists neurologists neurosurgeons philosophers psychologists and legal theorists

The Shortest Leap A. L. Van Den Herik,2020-04-28 All worldviews require a leap of faith but not all leaps of faith are the same A one stop shop for the rational evidence for Christianity The Shortest Leap presents the scientific historical biblical and explanatory underpinnings of the Christian faith demonstrating that faith in Jesus requires the shortest leap In addition to providing proactive evidence for Christianity The Shortest Leap responds to the numerous shots fired at biblical Christianity by atheists critics of Christianity and other skeptics The Shortest Leap answers a wide range of difficult questions including Is the Bible consistent with the findings of cutting edge secular science Was there really a man named Jesus or is he just a myth And even if he did exist aren t the events of Jesus life and his teachings as described in the New Testament merely fabrications of the earliest Christians Does the historical evidence support the claim that Jesus rose from the dead To understand who Jesus really was why shouldn't we consider other documents outside the Bible such as the Gnostic gospels Why were some documents excluded from the New Testament Did Jesus really claim to be God or did the earliest Christians just want to believe that Is the Old Testament still relevant Does it really point to Jesus hundreds to thousands of years before he lived How does the salvation by grace of Christianity differ from the salvation by works of all other religions Why can't I just believe in the Jesus that I like the best How can I be sure I have eternal life

What is this thing called Metaethics? Matthew Chrisman, 2023-06-20 What makes something morally right Where do our ethical standards come from Are they relative to cultures or timeless and universal Are there any objective moral facts What is goodness If there are moral facts how do we learn about them What do we mean when we say someone ought to do something These are all questions in metaethics the branch of ethics that investigates the status of morality the nature of ethical value the possibility of ethical knowledge and the meaning of ethical statements To the uninitiated it can appear abstract and far removed from its two more concrete cousins ethical theory and applied ethics yet it is one of the fastest growing and most exciting areas of ethics What is this thing called Metaethics demystifies this important subject and is ideal for students coming to it for the first time Beginning with a brief overview of metaethics and the development of a conceptual toolkit Matthew Chrisman introduces and assesses the following key topics ethical reality including questions about naturalism and non naturalism moral facts and the distinction between realism and antirealism ethical language does language represent reality What mental states are expressed by moral statements moral psychology the theory of motivation and the connection between moral judgement and motivation moral knowledge intuitionist and coherentist moral epistemologies and theories of objectivity and relativism in metaethics prominent metaethical theories naturalism nonnaturalism error theory and expressivism new directions in metaethics including non traditional theories thick ethical concepts and extensions to metaepistemology and metanormative theory The Second Edition has been completely revised and updated throughout This includes a new thematic organization of the core chapters many new examples a newly written final chapter including discussion of thick ethical concepts and all things considered normativity updated references to recent scholarly literature improved learning resources an expanded glossary of terms and much more Additional features such as chapter summaries questions of understanding and suggestions for further reading make What is this thing called Metaethics an ideal introduction to metaethics

A Charitable Orthopathy John W. Morehead, Brandon C. Benziger, 2020-04-07

Evangelicals and other conservative Christians of the twenty first century face enormous challenges in the pluralistic public square not least with Muslims and atheists Contrary to biblical injunctions to keep in step with the Spirit Gal 5 25b and to love our neighbors as ourselves e g Matt 22 37 40 Luke 10 25 37 both of which involve not only behavioral but also important affective elements we often harbor deep seated antipathies toward atheists and adherents of other religions While such feelings are at times justified and help us cope with conflict related tragedies they are also often baseless misconstrued and counterproductive priming us to avoid religious others support discriminatory policies against them and even confront them in verbal or physical ways The purpose of this volume is to offer an academically informed yet practically oriented collection of essays that challenges and encourages Christians to engage their religious neighbors in a much more loving compassionate hopeful and courageous indeed orthopathic manner whether in the realm of politics in debate and conference venues on the mission field or in their own homes schools churches and neighborhoods As such a set of reflection and discussion questions is included to facilitate individual and or group study

Christian Ethics and Commonsense Morality Kevin Jung, 2014-11-27

Christian Ethics and Commonsense Morality goes against the grain of various postmodern approaches to morality in contemporary religious ethics In this book Jung seeks to provide a new framework in which the nature of common Christian moral beliefs and practices can be given a new meaning He suggests that once major philosophical assumptions behind postmodern theories of morality are called into question we may look at Christian morality in quite a different light On his account Christian morality is a historical morality insofar as it is rooted in the rich historical traditions of the Christian church Yet this kind of historical dependence does not entail the evidential dependence of all moral beliefs on historical traditions It is possible to argue for the epistemic autonomy of moral beliefs according to which Christian and other moral beliefs can be justified independently of their historical sources The particularity of Christian morality lies not in its particular historical sources that also function as the grounds of justification but rather in its explanatory and motivational capacity to further articulate the kind of moral knowledge that is readily available to most human beings and to enable people to act upon their moral knowledge

The Routledge Handbook to Rethinking Ethics in International Relations Birgit Schippers, 2020-05-21

Discussing cutting edge debates in the field of international ethics this key volume builds on existing work in the normative study of international relations It responds to a substantial appetite for scholarship that challenges established approaches and examines new perspectives on international ethics and that appraises the ethical implications of problems occupying students and scholars of international relations in the twenty first century The contributions written by a team of international scholars provide authoritative surveys and interventions into the field of international ethics. Focusing on new and emerging ethical challenges to international relations and approaching existing challenges through the lens of new theoretical and methodological frameworks, the book is structured around five themes: New directions in international ethics; Ethical actors and practices in international relations; The ethics of climate change, globalization and health; Technology and ethics in international relations; The ethics of global security. Interdisciplinary in its scope, this book will be an important resource for scholars and students in the fields of politics and international relations, philosophy, law and sociology, and a useful reference for anyone who wishes to acquire ethical competence in the area of international relations.
