the primary source for peer group formation In recent years however the physical setting is not the only place bullying is occurring Technology allows for an entirely new type of digital electronic aggression cyberbullying which takes place through chat rooms instant messaging social media and other forms of digital electronic communication Composition of peer groups shifting demographics changing societal norms and modern technology are contextual factors that must be considered to understand and effectively react to bullying in the United States Youth are embedded in multiple contexts and each of these contexts interacts with individual characteristics of youth in ways that either exacerbate or attenuate the association between these individual characteristics and bullying perpetration or victimization Recognizing that bullying behavior is a major public health problem that demands the concerted and coordinated time and attention of parents educators and school administrators health care providers policy makers families and others concerned with the care of children this report evaluates the state of the science on biological and psychosocial consequences of peer victimization and the risk and protective factors that either increase or decrease peer victimization behavior and consequences
