A Shared Future Faith Based Organizing For Racial Equity And Ethical Democracy:

A Shared Future Richard L. Wood, Brad R. Fulton, 2015-12 At a time when participation in democratic governance exhibits a decrease among the less well off and an increase of power among the elite one big question concerns how to reverse this trend Wood and Fulton have devoted this book to finding ways to build democratic participation by low income and working families and to create cross racial alliances Here s where faith based organizations enter the picture These organizations have been significant players in shaping health care reform financial reform and immigration reform at higher levels of government aimed at benefitting working families It is a movement which directly addresses economic inequality policy paralysis and racial injustice in the United States Faith based organizing the authors show offers important lessons for an American public struggling to combine universalist democratic ideals with an increasingly multicultural reality in what will soon be a thoroughly multicultural society as new immigrant arrivals and demographic diffusion spread diversity into settings that were once bastions of white subculture Models for community organizing have been supplied over time by Saul Alinsky Cesar Chavez and Martin Luther King Jr A Shared Future has a distinctly empirical focus on one of the most important sponsoring networks for faith based organizations PICO Pacific Institute for Community Organizations which shifted neighborhood based organizations to congregation based organizations They achieved a high profile during the formation of health care policy that found its way into Obamacare legislation and have also been an important agent for addressing racial equity Wood and Fulton here address a new generation of faith based community organizers seeking to ground the movement in what they call ethical democracy and fleshing out an approach to addressing economic inequality and political paralysis

Lloyd, 2017-11-07 Black theology has lost its direction To reclaim its original power and to advance racial justice struggles today black theology must fully embrace blackness and theology But multiculturalism and religious pluralism have boxed in black theology forcing it to speak in terms dictated by a power structure founded on white supremacy In Religion of the Field Negro Vincent W Lloyd advances and develops black theology immodestly privileging the perspective of African Americans and employing a distinctively theological analysis As Lloyd argues secularism is entangled with the disciplining impulses of modernity with neoliberal economics and with Western imperialism but it also contaminates and castrates black theology Inspired by critics of secularism in other fields Religion of the Field Negro probes the subtle ways in which religion is excluded and managed in black culture Using Barack Obama Huey Newton and Steve Biko as case studies it shows how the criticism of secularism is the prerequisite of all criticism and it shows how criticism and grassroots organizing must go hand in hand But scholars of secularism too often ignore race and scholars of race too often ignore secularism Scholars of black theology too often ignore the theoretical insights of secular black studies scholars and race theorists too often ignore the critical insights of religious thinkers Religion of the Field Negro brings together vibrant scholarly conversations that have remained at a distance from each other until now Weaving theological sources critical theory and cultural analysis this book offers new answers to pressing questions about race and justice love and hope theorizing and organizing and the role of whites in black struggle The insights of James Cone are developed together with those of James Baldwin Sylvia Wynter and Achille Mbembe all in the service of developing a political theological vision that motivates us to challenge the racist paradigms of white supremacy
